NanoVox — Corpus v9 · Transcripts, batch 1 (C-0001 to C-0100 of 600)

Employer, industry, broker of record, group size, COBRA regime and renewal month are not repeated here — they join from caller_ref via the Member Master and Employer Contacts sheets of the v9 Build Bible — every caller_ref here resolves to a real record and the name spoken in the call is the name on that record. Rule references cite the three Rules sheets; a dash means the call is not governed by a published rule.

Sarah: Choice Administrators, Sarah speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Can I take your name and member ID?

Leon: Leon Castellano. CB-7700205.

Sarah: Thanks Leon, I have you.

Leon: I had a crown done three weeks ago and the claim's come back denied. The letter just says ineligible. I've been paying in since March.

Sarah: Let me pull the claim and your enrolment together, because I think those two things explain each other. One moment... right. Effective the first of March, crown on the twenty-third of June.

Leon: That's right.

Sarah: There are two different waiting periods on a dental plan and I think you've hit the second one. The first is your employer's — that's the one you clear when you join, and you cleared it in March. The second is on the plan itself and applies only to major work. Crowns, bridges, dentures. Yours is twelve months from your effective date.

Leon: So next March.

Sarah: First of March, yes.

Leon: Nobody told me that. I asked at sign-up whether I was covered and they said yes.

Sarah: And that was true as far as it went — cleanings and exams have been available to you since March. It's the major work that waits, and that distinction almost never gets made at the point somebody signs up.

Leon: So I'm out eleven hundred dollars.

Sarah: For that one, yes, and I'm not going to pretend otherwise. Is there more work planned?

Leon: He mentioned a second crown. Not urgent.

Sarah: Then that matters. Done after the first of March it's covered at fifty percent, so roughly half of what you've just paid. I'd rather you knew now than found out afterwards.

Leon: Alright. That is useful.

Sarah: I'm emailing you both dates in writing, and I'm logging that the denial letter should say which waiting period applied and when it ends. It said ineligible and stopped, and that's not good enough.

Leon: Thank you for actually explaining it.

Brad: When did you enrol?

Vidal: February.

Brad: Cards go out automatically.

Vidal: They may do. I haven't got one, and I've got an appointment Thursday.

Brad: It'd have been sent to the address on file.

Vidal: Which address is that?

Brad: There's an address on file, yes.

Vidal: Can you tell me what it says?

Brad: You'd need to check that on the portal.

Vidal: I've never been given a portal login.

Brad: You register with your member ID.

Vidal: And that gets me a card by Thursday?

Brad: I couldn't say.

Vidal: Is there anything you can do from your side?

Brad: Not without the portal, no.

Vidal: Right. Thanks.

Adaeze: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, this is Adaeze. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Can I take your name and group number?

Sandra: Sandra Villalobos, CON-137.

Adaeze: Thanks. Go ahead.

Sandra: I'm looking at the September statement and there's a column of two-letter codes down the side. CE, CI, XD. I've been doing this two years and I've never known what they mean.

Adaeze: They're change codes — one per line that moved since the last cycle. CE is a change to an enrolment date. CI is a change to member information, so an address or a name. XD is a cancelled dependent.

Sandra: So XD next to a line means I've lost a dependent off that employee.

Adaeze: It means one came off in that cycle, yes. If you weren't expecting it, that's worth checking.

Sandra: There's one I wasn't expecting.

Adaeze: Give me the line and I'll look... that's a dependent who aged out at the end of last month. There'd have been a letter to the dependent about ninety days before.

Sandra: To them, not to us.

Adaeze: To them. You're not copied, which surprises most employers.

Sandra: It surprises me. The employee's going to ask me about it and I'll know nothing.

Adaeze: That's a fair point and I'll record it. What I can do now is send you the full code list, and I'd suggest you check the statement against your own roster each month rather than only when something looks odd.

Sandra: Send the list. That'd help.

Adaeze: Going out today.

Mateo: Simple one. I've moved. I want the address changed.

Kayla: I can't change it from here, I'm afraid — address changes come through your employer, because they feed our record from theirs. If I changed it here it'd be overwritten on the next file.

Mateo: So I tell HR.

Kayla: Tell HR. They submit it and it flows through. Usually within a week.

Mateo: Does it matter? Everything's email.

Ewan: Ewan Haverford. CB-7700035.

Tony: Go ahead.

Ewan: I bought glasses Saturday and paid two hundred and ten dollars. I thought I had a twenty-five dollar copay.

Tony: Let me look. Copay's twenty-five, that's right.

Ewan: Then why two hundred and ten?

Tony: Bear with me a second. I'm seeing an allowance of a hundred and thirty on frames.

Ewan: Is that on top of the copay or instead of it?

Tony: Let me just check that before I say it. Can I put you on a short hold?

Ewan: Go on.

[hold 2m 40s] Thanks for waiting. So the copay comes off first and then the allowance applies.

Ewan: Applies how? Does it pay a hundred and thirty or does it pay a percentage?

Tony: It's the allowance amount.

Ewan: So if the frame was two hundred and sixty I'd pay the difference.

Tony: That would be — sorry, is two hundred and sixty the frame alone or with the lenses?

Ewan: It's one number on the receipt.

Tony: Lenses are on a separate schedule, that's the thing. Let me check which design you're on.

Ewan: I've been on eleven minutes.

Tony: I know. I'd rather be right than quick.

Ewan: I'd rather you were both.

Tony: That's fair. The honest answer is I can't give you the breakdown until the claim comes through.

Ewan: When's that?

Tony: Could be a week, could be three.

Ewan: Then I'll wait for the letter.

Tony: If it's still unclear, call back.

Saoirse: Saoirse Venkatesh, CON-139.

Danielle: Thanks Saoirse.

Saoirse: One of my people waived dental in January and now wants in. His wife's just been made redundant and they've lost her cover.

Danielle: That's a qualifying event, so he can come in outside open enrolment. Loss of coverage beyond his control.

Saoirse: Good. When from?

Danielle: First of the month after we have the forms and the documentation. So if it's with us in July, first of August.

Saoirse: What documentation?

Danielle: Something from her employer or her carrier showing the date cover ended. A termination letter or a certificate of coverage.

Saoirse: And if she can't get it quickly?

Danielle: Then it slips a month, and that's the bit I can't flex. I can't enrol on a verbal.

Saoirse: He's going to ask me why.

Danielle: Because without it there's nothing on file distinguishing a qualifying event from someone changing their mind in July, and that's the whole basis of the exception.

Saoirse: Fair enough. What's the deadline?

Danielle: Sixty days from the date her cover ended. That's the one to watch — the documentation can lag a bit, the sixty days can't.

Saoirse: Right. I'll chase them today.

Danielle: I'll email you the form and a note on what documentation works. If you're close to the sixty days and still waiting, ring me and we'll see what we can do.

Jonah: That's the one. And how much of the annual maximum is gone?

Tiffany: Four hundred and ten of fifteen hundred.

Jonah: Good. Is the date of birth right on file? The last plan had it wrong.

Tiffany: I've got the second of November nineteen eighty-eight.

Jonah: That's right.

Tiffany: Anything else?

Jonah: No, that's what I needed. The dentist said it'd be covered in full.

Tiffany: Fillings are basic, so eighty-twenty. Twenty percent is yours.

Carlos: Thank you. Go ahead.

Quentin: There are eleven people on this month's invoice who don't work here. Some left in April.

Carlos: Eleven. Let me open the group. How have you been filing the terminations?

Quentin: By email to Marcus Trent, our broker. He told us at renewal that was fine — email him the leavers and they'd come off.

Carlos: I need to correct that, and I'm sorry to be the one doing it. An email to a broker isn't a submission. Nothing moves on our side until it comes through the portal or directly to us. The last submission on this group was the second of March.

Quentin: March.

Carlos: March.

Quentin: So everyone who's left since is still billing.

Carlos: That's what I'm looking at.

Quentin: What's it cost us?

Carlos: I'm not giving you a number I haven't checked. Reconciling five cycles isn't something I can do accurately while you're on the phone.

Quentin: But somebody does it.

Carlos: Somebody does it. Three things now. I'm raising a full reconciliation back to March — that comes back as credits against your next invoice, not a refund, and I'll need your leaver dates, which I'll ask for by email today.

Quentin: Payroll has all of them.

Carlos: Good. Second, I'm escalating this as a broker conduct matter rather than logging it as a billing query. An agency telling a client that email notification is sufficient produced five months of wrong billing. That goes to a named owner in Broker Relations today, not into a queue.

Quentin: And third?

Carlos: Don't self-adjust the invoice. Pay it as billed and the credit will appear. If you short-pay it we'll be chasing a balance as well as a correction.

Quentin: Understood. References?

Carlos: Two, both in your inbox within the hour. Reply to that email if you hear nothing and it comes straight back to me.

Osric: I've never heard of them. I've had the same dentist for years.

Nicole: Then that's worth knowing before you book, because on this plan a visit anywhere else isn't covered except in an emergency.

Osric: Can I change who I'm assigned to?

Nicole: You can. You contact Delta Dental directly and ask to switch, and if your own dentist is in their network you can be assigned to them.

Osric: How do I find out if they are?

Nicole: Ask the practice whether they take DeltaCare USA specifically — not Delta Dental generally, because those are different networks and it catches people out.

Osric: Good to know. And if they don't?

Nicole: Then you'd be choosing between your dentist and the cover. I'd find out before you book rather than after.

Osric: I'll ring them. Thank you.

Priya: Thanks Imani.

Imani: We've had someone leave and I want to be sure I've done the COBRA bit right. To be honest I assumed you handled it.

Priya: It depends on your size, and this is the single most confused thing in the whole programme, so let me be precise. How many eligible employees do you have?

Imani: Fourteen.

Priya: Then you're under Cal-COBRA rather than federal COBRA, and on Cal-COBRA the notification duty sits with the health plans, who've contracted us to do it. So we send the election notice.

Imani: So I don't do anything?

Priya: You do one thing, and it's the important one. You have to tell us about the termination within thirty days of their last day. We can't send a notice for a leaver we don't know about.

Imani: And if I'm late?

Priya: Then the notice is late, and that's an exposure that sits with you rather than with us.

Imani: Noted. What about the address?

Priya: Same rule. We send to the last address we hold, and if that's stale we're not responsible for a misdirected notice. So address changes within thirty days too.

Imani: If we grow past twenty?

Priya: Then it flips entirely — federal COBRA, and the notification becomes solely yours. Fourteen days from the last day of coverage. Worth knowing before it happens rather than after.

Imani: That's genuinely useful. Can you send that in writing?

Priya: Sending it now, both regimes side by side.

Michael: Retinal imaging is usually an optional extra rather than part of the covered exam, and forty-five is about the going rate for it.

Ewan: So I pay.

Michael: On most designs, yes. It's worth asking them why they're recommending it, though — if there's a medical reason, diabetes or a family history of glaucoma, it may be billable to your medical plan rather than your vision plan.

Ewan: I do have a family history of glaucoma.

Michael: Then say that to them explicitly and ask whether they can bill it medically. They often can and they often don't ask.

Ewan: Nobody's ever mentioned that.

Michael: It's the most commonly missed thing in vision. Medical eye conditions belong to the medical plan; the vision plan covers the routine exam and the glasses.

Rasmus: I've divorced and I want to change who gets my life insurance.

Grace: I can help with that. You don't need anyone's agreement to change it — a beneficiary designation is yours to change, including your ex-wife's.

Rasmus: She doesn't have to sign anything?

Grace: No. That surprises people both ways round.

Rasmus: I want it split between my two children.

Grace: How old are they?

Rasmus: Nine and twelve.

Grace: Then there's something you need to know before you fill the form in. A life insurer won't pay a benefit directly to a minor. It would go to a court-appointed guardian, and that process takes time and costs money at exactly the wrong moment.

Rasmus: So what do people do?

Grace: Commonly they name a trust, or an adult they trust as beneficiary with the understanding it's for the children. But that's a decision with legal consequences and I'm not the person to advise you on which.

Rasmus: I hadn't thought about any of that.

Grace: Most people haven't. I'm sending you the change form either way — you can name them now and revisit it, which is better than leaving your ex-wife on the policy while you think about it.

Rasmus: Yes. Send it.

Farrah: Choice Administrators, Farrah speaking, this call may be recorded for quality and training.

Xiomara: Hi — quick question about my wife's cover. Xiomara Pryor.

Farrah: Let me find her. Xiomara Pryor — yes, active on dental since March, she's on the PPO design with a fifteen hundred annual maximum and she's used one hundred and eighty of it.

Xiomara: That's what I wanted. She's booked for a crown and I wanted to know if there was room.

Farrah: There's room on the maximum. Whether the crown is covered depends on the waiting period on major services, and I'd want her to ring and check that herself.

Xiomara: Why can't you tell me?

Farrah: I can tell you the maximum. The treatment detail I'd rather go through with the member.

Xiomara: Fine. I'll get her to call.

Farrah: That's the safer route.

EMPLOYER · CON-144 | PARTIALLY RESOLVED | score 76/100 | agent AGT-07|Linda Braithwaite

Linda: Choice Administrators, Linda speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Perrine: Perrine Lemoine, CON-144.

Linda: Thanks Perrine.

Perrine: Costs have gone up and I want to drop our contribution from seventy percent to fifty.

Linda: Fifty is the floor on employer-sponsored dental, so fifty itself is allowed. The issue is timing — contribution changes can only be made at renewal, within thirty days of your anniversary.

Perrine: Not mid-year.

Linda: Not mid-year.

Perrine: That's five months away.

Linda: It is. I'd rather tell you now than have you announce it to staff and then have to take it back.

Perrine: Is there anything I can do sooner?

Linda: Nothing on contribution. There is something worth thinking about before renewal, though — if you drop the contribution, some employees will drop the cover, and you're on employer-sponsored dental which carries a seventy percent participation requirement. If participation falls below that the carrier can decline to renew the line.

Perrine: So cutting the contribution could cost me the plan.

Linda: It could. It usually doesn't at seventy to fifty, but it's a real risk and it's the thing nobody mentions until the anniversary review.

Perrine: Can you tell me where we'd land?

Linda: I can't model it — that depends on your employees. What I can do is send you your current participation figure and the threshold, so you can make the decision with the numbers in front of you.

Perrine: Do that. And flag it for my renewal.

Linda: Flagging it now.

Kirsten: Kirsten Kowalczyk, CON-146.

James: Thanks. What can I do?

Kirsten: I've got a new starter and I've got myself confused about when her cover starts. She started on the second of June and we've got a ninety-day wait.

James: Ninety days from the second of June takes you to the thirty-first of August. But the cover doesn't start there — it starts the first day of the month following. So the first of September.

Kirsten: So she waits almost three months.

James: Just over. Somebody starting on the last day of a month waits considerably less than somebody starting on the first, which feels arbitrary to the employee and is worth explaining when you hire.

Kirsten: She's already asked me twice.

James: Then tell her the date rather than the rule. First of September.

Kirsten: When do I need her form in?

James: No more than sixty days before her effective date and no more than thirty days after. So any time from early July onwards. I'd do it now rather than wait.

Kirsten: Why not wait?

James: Because thirty days after is a hard stop, and if it's late she waits for the next window. There's no upside to holding it.

Kirsten: Right. Sending it today.

Vidal: Vidal Okonkwo, CB-7700118.

Hugo: Thanks Vidal.

Vidal: My doctor's suggested chiropractic for my back. Do I need a referral from him?

Hugo: No. On the chiropractic plan you go straight to any provider in the Landmark network. No referral, no authorisation, and nobody reviews whether the treatment is necessary.

Vidal: That's unusually simple.

Hugo: It is, and it catches people out the other way — they wait for a referral that was never needed.

Vidal: What do I pay?

Hugo: A flat copay per visit. No deductible, no percentage.

Vidal: Is there a limit?

Hugo: There's an annual visit maximum, and that's the one to watch. Once you've used it you're paying full cost for the rest of the year, so if you're starting a course of treatment it's worth knowing the number before you begin.

Vidal: What's mine?

Hugo: It's on your benefit summary and it varies by design — I'd rather send you your actual number than quote you a typical one and have you plan around the wrong figure.

Vidal: Send it. And can I change chiropractor if I don't get on with them?

Hugo: Any time, no permission needed. Just go to a different one in network.

Vidal: Good. Thank you.

EMPLOYER · CON-109 | ESCALATED | score 90/100 | agent AGT-01|Sarah Whitlock

Sarah: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, this is Sarah. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Dmitri: Dmitri Jaramillo, CON-109.

Sarah: Thanks Dmitri.

Dmitri: We added life at renewal. Anthony Salerno ran the enrolment meeting and told everyone they could pick their own amount and that anyone who didn't want it could opt out. I've now got four people who've said no and I don't know where that leaves me.

Sarah: It leaves you somewhere that needs fixing today, so let me be direct. Life on this programme is employer-sponsored only. It's one hundred percent employer-paid and it requires one hundred percent participation. There is no employee election and there is no opting out.

Dmitri: None of that is what we were told.

Sarah: I know. And there's a second part your broker won't have covered — every employee who is eligible for dental has to be enrolled in life, even the ones who waived dental. That usually catches groups by surprise.

Dmitri: We have six who waived dental.

Sarah: Then those six need life enrolment forms as well, and they don't have a choice about it either.

Dmitri: I've told forty people something that isn't true.

Sarah: You've told them what you were told. Here's what I'm doing. I'm escalating this to Broker Relations as a conduct matter today, with a named owner rather than a queue, because an agency misrepresenting participation at an enrolment meeting is not a misunderstanding.

Dmitri: Will that help me?

Sarah: It won't fix your Monday. What fixes your Monday is the second thing — I'm sending you a one-page explanation written for employees, from us, that you can circulate. They should hear this from Choice, not from you correcting yourself.

Dmitri: That would help enormously.

Sarah: And the third thing, which matters for your renewal — if you can't get to one hundred percent participation the carrier can decline the line. I'm flagging your group so somebody reviews it before the anniversary rather than at it.

Dmitri: Thank you. That's the first straight answer I've had on this.

Sarah: References are in your inbox within the hour. If nobody's contacted you in five working days, reply to that email and it comes back to me.

Michael: Thanks Osric.

Osric: I've hit my annual maximum and I've got more work to do. I assume I'm on my own now.

Michael: Not entirely, and this is the most commonly missed thing on a dental plan. Your maximum is exhausted, so the plan pays nothing further this year. But your dentist has a contract with the carrier that says what they can charge you, and that contract doesn't switch off when the maximum does.

Osric: Meaning?

Michael: Meaning you keep the network price. Network dentists have agreed to charge somewhere between twenty-five and fifty percent below their usual rates, and that applies to every visit, not just the paid ones.

Osric: So I'm paying, but not full retail.

Michael: Not full retail. On a few thousand dollars of work that difference is real money.

Osric: Nobody has ever told me that. The letter just says maximum reached.

Michael: It should say more. I'm logging that.

Osric: Does it matter which dentist I use?

Michael: It matters a great deal now. Out of network you'd be paying their full fee with no plan contribution and no contracted rate. In network you're getting the discount even with no benefit left.

Osric: Right. That changes my plan for the rest of the year. Thank you.

Kamal: My son's claim has been rejected and they're saying he isn't covered. He's twenty-six in August.

Elena: Let me look... his cover ended at the end of last month.

Kamal: He's not twenty-six until the eleventh of August.

Elena: The rule is end of the month following the twenty-sixth birthday, so if he turned twenty-six in June, cover ran to the end of July.

Kamal: He turned twenty-five in June. He's twenty-five.

Elena: Then the date of birth on our record may be wrong. I'm showing 2000.

Kamal: He was born in 2001.

Elena: Then that's an error and it needs correcting. What I can't do is correct it from here — dates of birth come through your employer's file, so it has to be changed there and flow through.

Kamal: How long?

Elena: Usually a week once they submit it.

Kamal: And the claim?

Elena: Once the date is corrected the claim can be resubmitted. It should pay.

Kamal: Should.

Elena: I'm being careful because I can't see the claim decision until the eligibility is fixed. What I can do is note the record so whoever picks it up knows why the resubmission is coming.

Kamal: And who tells my employer?

Elena: You'll have to, I'm afraid. I can't raise it with them on your behalf.

Kamal: That seems backwards.

Elena: It does. I'll note that too.

Uma: One of my staff wants to come off the dental. She asked in May and I only submitted it last week. She's expecting the May and June premium back.

Adaeze: She isn't going to get it, and I want to be straightforward with you rather than leave you to discover it on the invoice. A voluntary withdrawal takes effect the last day of the month following receipt. Not the month she asked you.

Uma: So it's my fault for sitting on it.

Adaeze: The delay is what it is. The rule would be the same if she'd called us herself in May — it's never backdated. Withdrawals aren't processed retroactively at all.

Uma: So when does she come off?

Adaeze: We received it last week, so end of August.

Uma: She's going to be annoyed.

Adaeze: She will. There's one more thing she should know before she is — once she's out, she can't come back in until renewal. Not on a qualifying event, not if she changes her mind. Renewal.

Uma: Does she know that?

Adaeze: Almost certainly not. It's the part that causes the second phone call.

Uma: Can you put that in writing so I'm not the one saying it?

Adaeze: Sending it now — the effective date and the re-entry rule, both on one page. And don't adjust your invoice in the meantime. Pay as billed and any credit will appear on the following statement.

Uma: That's the bit I'd have got wrong. Thank you.

Xiomara: The optician says they can't find me in the system. They've tried twice.

Danielle: What are they searching under?

Xiomara: ChoiceBuilder. It's what's printed at the top of my card.

Danielle: That's the problem, and it's the single most common reason a provider can't locate somebody here. ChoiceBuilder isn't a network — it's the programme your employer buys through. The network is the carrier, which for you is VSP.

Xiomara: So they search VSP.

Danielle: They search VSP, using the subscriber ID rather than the ChoiceBuilder reference. Same number, different system.

Xiomara: Why does the card put ChoiceBuilder at the top?

Danielle: Because that's the programme. It's a fair criticism of the card and it's not the first time it's come up.

Xiomara: Can you tell them?

Danielle: I can send you a digital card in the next few minutes with the carrier name at the top and the subscriber ID underneath. Show them that and it'll take ten seconds.

Quentin: Nobody has ever said that to me.

Carlos: It's in the administrative guide but it isn't something anybody reads until it matters. I'm not telling you you're liable — that's a question for your own counsel and it depends on facts I can't see. I'm telling you the exposure exists so you can take it seriously rather than treat it as a billing argument.

Quentin: What do I do now?

Carlos: Two things. Go through every employee who isn't enrolled and check you have a signed waiver for each. Where you don't, get one now — it doesn't fix the past but it stops the same conversation next year.

Quentin: And him?

Carlos: He can't be enrolled mid-year without a qualifying event, so the earliest is renewal. I'd take the liability question to your broker and your own advisor rather than trying to resolve it on the phone with me.

Quentin: That's sobering. Can you send me the waiver form?

Carlos: Sending it, with the relevant paragraph of the guide alongside it so you can show it to whoever needs to see it.

Grace: Choice Administrators, Grace speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Hollis: Hollis Okafor, CB-7700238.

Grace: Thanks Hollis.

Hollis: I'm going to Spain for three weeks and I wanted to know what happens if I have a dental problem out there.

Grace: Genuinely useful question and hardly anyone asks it in advance. What plan are you on — let me check. You're on a PPO, not the HMO, which matters.

Hollis: Why?

Grace: On the HMO you'd be restricted to your assigned dentist and away-from-home care is emergency only. On a PPO you can see any dentist, and out of network you're covered at a lower level rather than not at all.

Hollis: So I'd get something back.

Grace: You'd get something back. You'd pay the dentist in full, keep an itemised receipt, and submit a claim when you're home. Get it itemised — a card receipt with a total on it won't be enough.

Hollis: In Spanish?

Grace: A translation helps. What really matters is the procedure codes, dates and amounts.

Hollis: And routine things? I'm due a cleaning.

Grace: I'd have it here before you go. It's covered here and it's a lot of admin there for something you can do next week.

Hollis: Sensible. Thank you.

Deon: Go ahead.

Omar: I submitted a newborn addition three weeks ago and the baby still isn't showing.

Deon: Let me look. I'm not seeing a pending addition.

Omar: I did it on the portal. I've got the screen still open.

Deon: Do you have a confirmation?

Omar: It said submitted.

Deon: Submitted isn't necessarily applied.

Omar: What's the difference?

Deon: The submission goes into a queue.

Omar: And then?

Deon: And then it's processed.

Omar: So is it in the queue or was it processed and rejected?

Deon: I can't see the queue from this screen.

Omar: Who can?

Deon: Enrolment would have that.

Omar: Can you ask them?

Deon: I'd have to email them.

Omar: Please do.

Deon: I can put a note on.

Omar: A note or an email? Those are different things.

Deon: I'll note it and they'll pick it up.

Omar: When?

Deon: I couldn't say.

Omar: The sixty days runs out on the ninth of August. If this doesn't land, the baby isn't covered until renewal.

Deon: The submission date should protect you.

Omar: Should, or does?

Deon: It should.

Omar: I'll ring back Monday.

Quentin: Quentin Winters, CB-7700143.

Priya: Thanks Quentin.

Quentin: I'm leaving my job at the end of the month. Somebody said I might be able to keep the life insurance. Is that right?

Priya: It is, and I'm glad you asked now rather than later, because the window is short and it's easy to miss.

Quentin: How short?

Priya: Thirty-one days from the day your group cover ends. Inside that window you can convert to an individual whole life policy with no medical questions at all.

Quentin: No health questions?

Priya: None. That's the value of it — if your health has changed at all, this is cover you might not be able to buy on the open market.

Quentin: And after thirty-one days?

Priya: It's gone. There's no extension and no exception.

Quentin: Why has nobody told me this?

Priya: Honestly, the responsibility for telling you sits with your employer, and it's one of the least well-handled parts of the whole thing.

Quentin: What do I do?

Priya: I'll send you the conversion request today with the carrier's details and the date your window closes, so it's a date on a page rather than a rule in your head. You apply and pay the first premium inside it.

Quentin: Will it be expensive?

Priya: Individual whole life usually costs considerably more than group term, so possibly. But you'll be deciding with a quote in front of you rather than wondering, and that's the point.

Quentin: Thank you. I'd have lost that entirely.

Kayla: Thanks. How can I help?

Quincy: I need a letter proving I've got dental cover. My daughter's school wants it for a form.

Kayla: A certificate of coverage. I can request that.

Quincy: How long?

Kayla: Usually five to seven working days by post.

Quincy: The form's due Friday.

Kayla: Then the post won't make it. What I can do is email you a coverage confirmation today — it's not the formal certificate but it names you, the plan, the carrier and your effective date, and for a school form that's almost always enough.

Quincy: Would they accept that?

Kayla: Most do. I'd send you both — the email today and the formal certificate behind it — so you're covered either way.

Quincy: That works. Thank you.

Linda: Choice Administrators, Linda speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Derek: Derek Kowalczyk, CON-118.

Linda: Thanks Derek.

Derek: We took the chiropractic rider in January. I've got nine people in Phoenix telling me there's no provider they can use.

Linda: They're right, and I'm not going to dress it up. Landmark's insured plans are California only. Outside California there's nothing unless the employer has bought a self-funded arrangement, which you haven't.

Derek: So they have no cover at all.

Linda: No cover at all.

Derek: Can they go out of network and claim back?

Linda: That's the part people assume and it isn't true here. Landmark doesn't pay for out-of-network services in any amount. The member carries the whole cost.

Derek: So I'm paying for a benefit that nine of my people cannot use in any circumstance.

Linda: Yes.

Derek: Can I drop it?

Linda: You can, actually, and that's the one piece of good news. A line can be terminated at any time on thirty days' notice, effective no earlier than the first of the following month.

Derek: I thought I'd be stuck until renewal.

Linda: Most people think that. You're not. Whether you should drop it is a different question — you've presumably got people in California using it.

Derek: About thirty.

Linda: Then dropping it solves nine people's problem by creating thirty people's problem. I'd think carefully.

Derek: What I actually want is to stop the nine feeling cheated.

Linda: Then let me send something in writing they can read, from us, explaining exactly what they have and don't have. They should hear it from Choice rather than from you.

Derek: Yes. Do that.

Linda: And I'm logging that nobody checked your employee locations against the network before this was sold to you. That check should happen at quotation.

James: Thanks Dmitri.

Dmitri: My dentist has quoted four thousand dollars of work and I've no idea whether that's what I'll actually pay.

James: Then stop before you agree to any of it and ask them for a pretreatment estimate.

Dmitri: What's that?

James: They submit the proposed treatment to the carrier before doing it, and the carrier comes back in writing with what the plan will pay and what you'll owe. Procedure by procedure.

Dmitri: Do they have to do it?

James: It isn't required, which is why a lot of practices skip it. But any of them can, and on four thousand dollars of work I'd insist.

Dmitri: How long does it take?

James: Usually two to three weeks.

Dmitri: And if some of it isn't covered?

James: Then you find out now rather than in a bill, and you can decide what to do in what order. Sometimes sequencing across two plan years changes the number a lot.

Dmitri: Nobody offered me this.

James: They rarely do. Ask for it by name — pretreatment estimate — and they'll know exactly what you mean.

Dmitri: Thank you. That's saved me a fright.

Sarah: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Sarah speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Xavier: Xavier Fraser, CON-157.

Sarah: Thanks Xavier.

Xavier: Our admin fee has gone up and nobody told us. It was thirty, now it's thirty-five.

Sarah: That's because you crossed a headcount band. The fee is banded — twenty-five up to eight employees, thirty from nine to twenty, thirty-five from twenty-one to a hundred and ninety-nine, fifty above that.

Xavier: We hired two people.

Sarah: And went from twenty to twenty-two. The fee is recalculated monthly on the number enrolled at the time of invoicing, so it can move in either direction without anyone telling you.

Xavier: It'd be nice to be told.

Sarah: It would. It's on the statement but not as a change.

Xavier: Anything else change at twenty-one?

Sarah: Yes, and this one matters more than five dollars. At twenty employees you crossed from Cal-COBRA to federal COBRA. That flips who has to send the continuation notice — under Cal-COBRA we send it on the health plans' behalf, under federal COBRA the duty is solely yours, within fourteen days of the last day of coverage.

Xavier: So if somebody left last month.

Sarah: Then the notice was yours to send, and if it didn't go, that's an exposure. Did anyone leave?

Xavier: One person, in June.

Sarah: Then I'd deal with that today. I'd also say — while I've got you — if you're hiring, it's worth a conversation about what else the programme covers, because you only have dental.

Xavier: We've been meaning to look at vision. Who do I speak to about adding it?

Sarah: Your broker would normally lead that. I'm going to note the interest on the account as well, because it shouldn't depend on you remembering to chase.

Xavier: Appreciated. Send me the COBRA timing in writing.

Sarah: Going out now.

Hugo: Thanks Fenna.

Fenna: My wife's got dental through her job as well. Can we run both and pay nothing?

Hugo: Depends which plan you're on, and yours is the DeltaCare HMO, where the answer is no. Coordination of benefits doesn't apply on that plan at all.

Fenna: Meaning her plan can't top mine up.

Hugo: Correct. You'd pay the copay on yours regardless of what she has.

Fenna: That seems like a waste.

Hugo: It can be. Where it isn't a waste is the children — if you have any, they can be enrolled on whichever plan suits them better rather than both, and some families split dependents across two plans deliberately.

Fenna: We've got one, six years old.

Hugo: Then the thing worth comparing is which plan gives better paediatric coverage and whether the dentist you want is on it. That's a better use of the two plans than trying to stack them.

Fenna: That's clearer than I expected. Thanks.

Nicole: Possibly not. There's a rehire rule, but it has four conditions and all four have to be met.

Gustavo: Go on.

Nicole: They previously completed your waiting period. They were previously enrolled. They're rehired within six months of losing the cover. And they re-enrol in the same benefits as before.

Gustavo: How long is six months from?

Nicole: From the date their cover ended, not the date they stopped working. Those differ by up to a month.

Gustavo: They finished in March.

Nicole: Then cover would have ended end of April, and six months takes you to end of October. You're inside it.

Gustavo: All four then.

Nicole: If they're taking the same benefits, yes. If one of them wants to add vision this time, that's a different benefit and the rule doesn't apply to them.

Gustavo: That's a trap.

Nicole: It is, and it's worth knowing before you promise anybody a start date. Their cover would begin the first of the month following the rehire.

Gustavo: Right. I'll get the forms in.

Adaeze: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Adaeze speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Pascal: Pascal Ferrara, CON-161.

Adaeze: Thanks. Go ahead.

Pascal: We've had a notice confirming cancellation. We are not cancelled. We paid on the eighteenth.

Adaeze: Let me look before I say anything... I can see a payment received on the eighteenth of July, and a cancellation confirmed on the first of August for the July coverage month.

Pascal: So the payment arrived and you cancelled us anyway.

Adaeze: The payment arrived after the grace period closed. Premium was due on the twentieth of June for July coverage. The grace period ran thirty days from the cancellation notice on the twenty-fifth of June.

Pascal: Nobody rang us.

Adaeze: There'd have been three letters — the notice on the twenty-fifth, a second on the fourteenth of July, and the confirmation. All by post.

Pascal: We've had one of those. We moved office in May.

Adaeze: Then that is the root of this, and it's worth fixing today regardless of anything else.

Pascal: Are my people covered or not?

Adaeze: As things stand, cover ended the thirty-first of July.

Pascal: We have someone having surgery next week.

Adaeze: Then let me tell you exactly what the route back is, because there is one and it has a clock on it. A written reinstatement request within fourteen days of the termination effective date. If it's approved, the full balance plus fees by cashier's check or money order — not a company check.

Pascal: Fourteen days from the thirty-first.

Adaeze: So the fourteenth. Today's the thirty-first, so you have time, but not much.

Pascal: I want this escalated. If we lose cover over a postal address after eleven years, we will be moving the whole thing at renewal, and I'd rather say that now than after.

Adaeze: That's noted as said, and I'm escalating on two grounds rather than one. The reinstatement goes to billing with the address history attached. And the account goes to Account Management today as a retention matter, because eleven years and an office move shouldn't end like this.

Pascal: Will anyone actually call me?

Adaeze: A named owner today, and I'm putting the surgery date in the note so whoever picks it up knows why it's urgent. References in your inbox within the hour. If you've heard nothing by Monday, reply to that email and it comes back to me.

Pascal: Thank you. That's the first useful thing that's happened.

Idris: Silly question. I've got two cards, one from you and one from the dentist's own plan they sold me last year. Which do I use?

Michael: Not a silly question at all. What the practice sold you is almost certainly a membership discount scheme rather than insurance — you pay them a yearly fee and get a percentage off their fees.

Idris: That's what it sounded like.

Michael: Use your dental plan. It's actual coverage, and most practices won't apply both.

Idris: Should I cancel the other one?

MEMBER · CB-7700247 | RESOLVED | score 86/100 | agent AGT-03|Danielle Park

Danielle: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Danielle speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Gustavo: Gustavo Nasser, CB-7700247.

Danielle: Thanks Gustavo.

Gustavo: I need a root canal. My dentist has sent me to a specialist and now I'm being told it's not covered.

Danielle: You're on the DeltaCare plan. Did your assigned dentist put a referral in?

Gustavo: He gave me a name and a phone number.

Danielle: That's not the same thing, and it's what's gone wrong. On this plan a specialist needs two things — a referral from your assigned dentist, and preauthorization from Delta Dental. A name on a piece of paper is neither.

Gustavo: He's the one who sent me.

Danielle: He is, and he should have submitted it. The good news is it's fixable, because you haven't had the treatment yet.

Gustavo: I'm booked for Thursday.

Danielle: Then ring your dentist's office today and use the words referral and preauthorization. Ask them to submit it and ask how long it takes. If it won't be through by Thursday, move Thursday rather than go ahead and hope.

Gustavo: And if they say it's fine?

Danielle: Ask them for the authorisation number. If there's a number, it's real.

Gustavo: What if the specialist isn't in the network?

Danielle: Then it depends on distance. If there's no DeltaCare specialist within thirty-five miles or an hour's travel, you can be authorised to see one outside the network. But that's still an authorisation, not a decision you make yourself.

Gustavo: This is a lot of hoops.

Danielle: It is. It's the trade for the low copays. I'm emailing you the two words and what to ask for, so you're not relying on remembering this conversation.

Gustavo: Thank you.

Farrah: Choice Administrators, Farrah speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Lena: Lena Nakamura, CON-164.

Farrah: Thanks Lena.

Lena: I want to set up automatic payment. Card or direct debit, I don't mind which.

Farrah: Neither is available, I'm afraid. Payment is by check, money order or cashier's check only.

Lena: In 2026.

Farrah: I know how it sounds. I'd rather tell you straight than have you spend an afternoon looking for the option.

Lena: We're a small business. Every month somebody has to remember to write a check.

Farrah: Then the thing that matters most is the date. Premium is due on the twentieth of the month before the coverage month, so the September invoice is due on the twentieth of August. Posting takes a few days on top.

Lena: And if it's late?

Farrah: A notice on the twenty-fifth and a thirty-day grace period. It's recoverable, but the letters start.

Lena: Can you send a reminder?

Farrah: There's no reminder service. What I'd do is set a calendar reminder on the fifteenth and post it then.

Lena: That's a workaround, not an answer.

Farrah: It is. I'm logging that you asked, because you're not the first this month.

Bianca: Bianca Thibault, CB-7700137.

Tony: Thanks Bianca.

Bianca: I submitted a claim for glasses eight weeks ago. Nothing. No letter, no payment.

Tony: Eight weeks is too long. Let me see what I've got... I can see the claim received on the ninth of June, status pending.

Bianca: Pending for eight weeks.

Tony: Pending for eight weeks. I can't tell you why from here — the status detail sits with the carrier, not with us.

Bianca: So what can you do?

Tony: Two things honestly. I can raise a status enquiry with the carrier, which gets a human looking at it rather than it sitting in a queue. And I can give you the carrier's own claims line, because you calling them directly will usually be faster than me relaying.

Bianca: Why is calling them faster?

Tony: Because they can see the claim detail and I can't. I'd rather tell you that than pretend I'm the quickest route.

Bianca: Fine. Do both.

Tony: Raising the enquiry now. One thing worth checking when you speak to them — was the claim submitted with an itemised receipt showing the frame and lenses separately? Combined receipts are the most common reason a vision claim stalls.

Bianca: I sent what they gave me at the till.

Tony: Then that may be it. If they ask for an itemised one, the optician can reprint it.

Bianca: That's more useful than anything I've had. Thank you.

Kayla: Thanks. How can I help?

Denise: I keep getting emails from you about a wellness programme and I don't want them.

Kayla: Let me check what you're getting. Is it coming from us or from the carrier?

Denise: It says Delta Dental at the bottom.

Kayla: Then it's the carrier, and there'll be an unsubscribe link at the very bottom of the email. That'll stop it.

Denise: Will it stop everything? I do want the claim letters.

Kayla: It shouldn't. Marketing preferences and claims correspondence are separate, and claims letters aren't optional anyway.

Denise: And if it does stop them?

Kayla: Then ring me back and I'll chase it. But I'd be surprised.

Denise: Alright. Thanks.

Carlos: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Carlos speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Dagny: Dagny Sorensen, CON-166.

Carlos: Thanks Dagny.

Dagny: One of my employees wants to add her domestic partner. I don't know what I need from her.

Carlos: A Declaration of Domestic Partnership filed with the Secretary of State, and a copy to us within sixty days of it being issued.

Dagny: They haven't filed one. They've been together eleven years.

Carlos: Then there's an interim route in California. A signed Affidavit of Domestic Partnership is accepted while the filed declaration is being obtained.

Dagny: So she can be added now.

Carlos: She can, on the affidavit. But the filed copy still has to follow, and that's the part that gets forgotten. If it doesn't arrive the enrolment is at risk.

Dagny: Who chases that? Me or you?

Carlos: Practically, you. I'd put a date in your own calendar rather than assume a reminder will come.

Dagny: Is there a cost difference to her?

Carlos: The premium is the same as a spouse. The tax treatment can differ, and that's a payroll question rather than a benefits one — worth flagging to whoever runs your payroll before the first deduction, because it surprises people.

Dagny: I'd not have thought of that.

Carlos: It's the thing that generates the second call. I'll send you the affidavit, the declaration guidance and a note on the sixty days.

Grace: Choice Administrators, Grace speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Pascal: Pascal Delgado, CB-7700251.

Grace: Thanks Pascal.

Pascal: I've been charged sixty dollars for x-rays that I thought were part of the check-up.

Grace: Let me look at the claim... you had bitewings in February and again in July.

Pascal: Different practices. I changed dentists.

Grace: That's the explanation. There's a frequency limit on bitewings — one series in each six-month period. February to July is five months, so the second set fell inside the window.

Pascal: By a month.

Grace: By a month, and the new practice wouldn't have known you'd had them, because they weren't your dentist in February.

Pascal: Can they not see that?

Grace: They can ask the carrier for a benefit history before they treat, and good practices do. Many don't.

Pascal: So this is on me to know?

Grace: It shouldn't be, and I'll note that the denial reason should say when the next set becomes available rather than just declining it. What I'd suggest practically — when you change dentist, tell the new one the date of your last x-rays. It's the single most common cause of this call.

Pascal: That's worth knowing. Thank you.

Tobias: Tobias Achebe, CB-7700252.

Deon: Go ahead.

Tobias: I've been charged twice for the same treatment. Same date, same procedure, two amounts taken.

Deon: Let me look. I'm seeing one claim.

Tobias: I'm looking at two payments on my card statement.

Deon: Payments to the practice wouldn't come through us.

Tobias: So the practice took it twice.

Deon: It looks that way.

Tobias: But one of those was supposed to be covered by you.

Deon: Let me check the claim... the claim was paid.

Tobias: Paid to whom?

Deon: To the provider.

Tobias: So they've been paid by you and by me.

Deon: That's possible.

Tobias: Possible or what's shown?

Deon: I can see a payment to the provider. What they've charged you isn't visible to me.

Tobias: Can you contact them?

Deon: It'd be between you and the practice.

Tobias: Even though you've paid them for the same thing?

Deon: The claim was paid correctly on our side.

Tobias: I'm not disputing your side. I'm asking for help with the bit in the middle.

Deon: I'd suggest speaking to the practice's billing office.

Tobias: I've spoken to them twice. That's why I rang you.

Deon: I can note it.

Tobias: Can I speak to someone senior?

Deon: There's no one available for a billing query with a provider.

Tobias: Then note it, I suppose.

Priya: Thanks Sable.

Sable: One of my employees has a disabled son who's about to turn twenty-six. She's panicking.

Priya: She doesn't need to, but there is something she has to do and there's a deadline on it. A disabled dependent can stay on past the age limit, provided the disability began before the limit.

Sable: It did. He's been disabled since birth.

Priya: Then he qualifies. What's needed is a Disabled Dependent Certification form, completed and returned before the coverage would otherwise end.

Sable: When would it end?

Priya: End of the month following his twenty-sixth birthday.

Sable: That's October.

Priya: Then I'd have the form in during August. Don't leave it to September.

Sable: Is that it?

Priya: Not quite, and this is the part that trips people. It isn't a one-off. Verification of the disability is required annually, on his birthday. Miss a year and the coverage can lapse.

Sable: Every year.

Priya: Every year.

Sable: Does anyone remind her?

Priya: There is notification, but I wouldn't rely on it landing at the right address for the next twenty years. I'd tell her to put it in her own calendar.

Sable: That's the most useful thing you could have said. Send me the form.

Priya: Going out today, with the annual requirement in writing so she has it.

Vidal: Vidal Castellano, CB-7700170. I rang about this a month ago and got nowhere, so I'll be honest, I'm not expecting much.

Sarah: Then let's see if I can change that. What's it about?

Vidal: My dental card. Still haven't got one.

Sarah: Right. First thing — you're active, so whatever else is going on you have cover. The card is a convenience, not the coverage.

Vidal: Nobody said that last time.

Sarah: Second thing, and this is probably your whole answer. On your carrier, cards aren't posted to members at all. They go to the employer in a batch and the employer distributes them.

Vidal: So it's sitting on somebody's desk.

Sarah: Very likely on somebody's desk. Only two of our carriers post direct to the member, and yours isn't one of them.

Vidal: Six months I've been chasing the post.

Sarah: I know, and there's no reason you'd have guessed. The mailer should tell you where the card went and it doesn't. I'm logging that.

Vidal: What do I do now? I've an appointment on the twentieth.

Sarah: Two things. I'm sending you a digital card in the next few minutes — show it on your phone, most practices prefer that anyway. And ask your HR team whether there's an unopened envelope from February.

Vidal: And if there isn't?

Sarah: Then ring me back and I'll have a replacement batch raised. But check first, because I'd put money on it.

Vidal: That's the first sensible thing anyone's said about this.

James: Thanks Pascal.

Pascal: I want to know if I can use my dental cover for teeth whitening.

James: You can't, and I'd rather be clear than leave you hopeful. Whitening is cosmetic and it's excluded across every design on this programme.

Pascal: Even though it's at the dentist?

James: Even though. The test isn't who does it, it's whether it treats disease or restores function.

Pascal: What about veneers?

James: Same answer where they're cosmetic. Where a veneer is restoring a broken tooth it can fall under major services, but that's a clinical judgement and the carrier decides it from the claim, not from the name.

Pascal: So it depends.

James: It depends, and that's exactly where a pretreatment estimate earns its place. Ask the practice to submit one before you commit, and you'll have the answer in writing rather than in a bill.

Pascal: That's fair. Thank you.

Grace: Grace Ruiz, CB-7702155 — sorry, CB-7700183. This is my third call about a duplicate payment. I've been promised a callback twice and had none.

Nicole: Let me read what's on the record before you repeat yourself. I can see two notes, neither with a case number attached.

Grace: Which means?

Nicole: Which means nothing was ever raised. A note sits on the record. It doesn't go to anybody and nobody is waiting for it. So the callbacks you were promised were never going to happen, and I'm sorry — that's not a system failure you should have had to discover by ringing three times.

Grace: At least that's honest.

Nicole: Tell me the amount and the dates and I'll do this properly.

Grace: Two hundred and eighteen dollars, taken on the second and the eleventh of June, same procedure.

Nicole: I'm raising a duplicate payment investigation now, which is a case with a number and an owner, not a note. It goes to claims today.

Grace: How long?

Nicole: Ten working days is what they'll say. Because this is a third contact I'm flagging it for priority handling, which usually shortens it.

Grace: And if it doesn't?

Nicole: You'll have the case number in an email within the hour. Reply to it and it comes back to me rather than into the general queue.

Grace: That's what I wanted the first time.

Nicole: I know. I'm also recording that two calls produced notes and no case, because if it happened to you it's happening to others.

Omar: So it was rejected.

Adaeze: It was rejected, and nobody told you. The portal said submitted and stopped.

Omar: Five weeks.

Adaeze: Five weeks. Now — the important thing. Your sixty days runs from the birth, not from the submission, so tell me the date of birth.

Omar: The twenty-first of June.

Adaeze: Then you have until the twentieth of August. That's Thursday.

Omar: Thursday.

Adaeze: Which is tight but entirely fine, because I'm going to take the detail from you now and enter it myself rather than send you back to the portal.

Omar: You can do that?

Adaeze: I can for this. Give me the child's full name and date of birth.

Omar: Aurelio Fontaine, twenty-first of June 2026.

Adaeze: Entered and applied. And because the birth was before the sixteenth of the month, cover runs from the first of June, not from today.

Omar: From before he was born?

Adaeze: From the first of the month he was born in. It's the rule that works in your favour and nobody knows about it.

Omar: So the hospital claim.

Adaeze: Would be dental only through us, so probably not relevant — but if there's anything dental in that window it's covered.

Omar: Thank you. Genuinely.

Adaeze: I'm logging the portal failure as well. A submission that is accepted, rejected and never reported is the actual problem here, and it isn't only you.

EMPLOYER · CON-172 | PARTIALLY RESOLVED | score 81/100 | agent AGT-03|Danielle Park

Danielle: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Danielle speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Bethany: Bethany Delgado, CON-172.

Danielle: Thanks Bethany.

Bethany: We've had six people drop dental since the spring. I want to know where that leaves our participation.

Danielle: Good question to ask now rather than at renewal. You're on employer-sponsored dental, so the requirement is seventy percent participation and a minimum of two enrolled.

Bethany: And where are we?

Danielle: Sixty-eight percent.

Bethany: So we're under.

Danielle: You're under.

Bethany: What happens?

Danielle: The carrier reviews participation at the anniversary. Below the threshold they can decline to renew the line, and separately we reserve the right to re-rate if contributory status or participation changes.

Bethany: Can they really cancel dental for the sixty-eight percent who want it because thirty-two percent don't?

Danielle: That's the mechanism, yes. It doesn't always happen, but it can and it's not a bluff.

Bethany: When's our anniversary?

Danielle: First of March.

Bethany: So I've got time.

Danielle: You've got time and you've got one window — your open enrolment in January. Outside that, people can only come in on a qualifying event.

Bethany: How many do I need?

Danielle: Two more enrolled clears it on today's headcount. If you hire, the number moves.

Bethany: And if I don't make it? Because frankly if we lose the dental after four years I'll be looking at what else is out there for the whole package.

Danielle: That's noted as said, and I'll be straight with you — what the carrier does below threshold is their discretion and I won't guess at it. What I can do is flag the group now so somebody reviews it before the anniversary rather than at it, and send you your current figure in writing so you can plan January properly.

Bethany: Do that.

Hugo: Choice Administrators, Hugo speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Quill: Quill Nkemdi, CB-7700166.

Hugo: Thanks Quill.

Quill: My chiropractor fitted me with a back support and charged me ninety dollars. I thought equipment was covered.

Hugo: It is, but with its own annual cap that sits outside the visit benefit. Durable medical equipment usually runs around fifty dollars a year on these designs.

Quill: So forty of the ninety is mine.

Hugo: Roughly, and I'd rather send you your actual number than have you plan around a typical one.

Quill: Is there the same thing on x-rays?

Hugo: There is, separately, and usually a bit higher. Those two caps are the most commonly missed part of a chiropractic plan because people focus on the visit copay.

Quill: Does the cap reset?

Hugo: Annually.

Quill: And if he wants to do more imaging?

Hugo: Then ask him what it'll cost before he does it, and ask whether it's necessary now or can wait for the reset. He can self-refer and there's no authorisation, which is convenient but also means nobody is checking the cost against your remaining cap except you.

Quill: That's a useful way to put it. Send me the numbers.

Michael: Choice Administrators, Michael speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Ewan: Ewan Haverford, CB-7700035. I rang in July about a two hundred and ten dollar bill for glasses and spent twelve minutes going nowhere.

Michael: Then let me do it differently. I'll explain the structure first and then put your numbers in it, because I think the structure is what didn't land.

Ewan: Go on.

Michael: Three separate things. A copay, which is a fixed amount you pay — yours is twenty-five. A frame allowance, which is not a copay, it's a budget — yours is a hundred and thirty. And lenses, which run on their own schedule, separate from frames.

Ewan: So the allowance is a budget, not a discount.

Michael: Exactly. If the frame costs more, you pay the difference. The plan pays up to the number and stops.

Ewan: Nobody put it like that.

Michael: And now your claim has come through, so I can show you rather than describe it. Frame two hundred and sixty — allowance a hundred and thirty, so a hundred and thirty to you. Lenses seventy-five with a progressive upgrade, and the upgrade isn't covered, that's fifty-five. Plus the twenty-five copay.

Ewan: A hundred and thirty, fifty-five, twenty-five. Two hundred and ten.

Michael: That's your two hundred and ten.

Ewan: So it was right all along.

Michael: It was right. You were undertold, which is a different problem and still ours.

Ewan: Is there a way to know before I'm at the till?

Michael: Yes, and it's worth having. Ask the optician for a benefit breakdown before they order. Any VSP practice can run one. It shows what the plan pays and what you cover, itemised, before you choose a frame.

Ewan: Nobody has ever mentioned that.

Michael: It's the most useful thing on a vision plan and almost nobody knows it exists. Sending you a one-pager with your allowances and that wording.

Terrence: Terrence Thibault, CON-173.

Linda: Thanks Terrence.

Terrence: I want to know what I can and can't change without waiting for renewal. I keep getting told different things.

Linda: It's genuinely confusing because there are three different answers depending on what you're changing. Let me give you all three.

Terrence: Please.

Linda: Renewal only, within thirty days of your anniversary: employer contribution, the new-hire waiting period, the minimum hours for eligibility, any change to your chiropractic plan design, and moving a line between voluntary and employer-sponsored.

Terrence: So most of the money things.

Linda: Most of the money things. Second group — once a year and at renewal: adding chiropractic, adding life.

Terrence: And the third?

Linda: Any time: address, company name, contact details, federal tax ID, adding a Section 125 plan, adding employer-sponsored vision, and terminating a line of coverage.

Terrence: I can terminate a line any time but not change the contribution on it.

Linda: Correct, and I know how that sounds. Termination is thirty days' notice in writing on your letterhead, from someone authorised, effective no earlier than the first of the following month.

Terrence: And Section 125 any time?

Linda: Any time. There's a one hundred dollar fee that appears on the next invoice.

Terrence: That's worth doing.

Linda: For most groups it is, and it's the one thing on that list people don't know they can do mid-year. I'll send you the three lists so you're not relying on this call.

Nadira: I've lost my job. What happens to my dental?

Kayla: I'm sorry to hear that. Your cover runs to the end of the month following your last day, so you're not cut off immediately.

Nadira: When was my last day — the fourteenth of August.

Kayla: Then cover to the thirtieth of September.

Nadira: And after?

Kayla: You'd have the option to continue it at your own cost. There'll be a notice coming with the detail — how long, and what it costs.

Nadira: From you or from them?

Kayla: Depends on your employer's size, and I can see they're over twenty, so that notice is your former employer's responsibility rather than ours. Within fourteen days of cover ending.

Nadira: And if it doesn't arrive?

Kayla: Chase them, and chase them early. The election window is time-limited and it doesn't extend because the letter was late.

Nadira: Right. Thanks.

Tony: Choice Administrators, Tony speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Caius: Caius Villalobos, CON-131. I called five weeks ago about a grace period notice and came off the phone knowing less than when I rang.

Tony: Then let me try and actually answer it. The thing that confuses almost everybody is what the invoice is for. It bills the month ahead, not the month behind.

Caius: Say that again.

Tony: The statement you get on the first of August is for September's coverage, and it's due on the twentieth of August. So if you're paying it thinking it covers July, you're always a month behind and you never notice until a notice arrives.

Caius: That is exactly what we've been doing.

Tony: I thought it might be.

Caius: So we're one month in arrears, permanently.

Tony: That's what the balance looks like, yes. And because payments apply to the oldest open balance first, every payment you make clears last month rather than this month, which keeps the position exactly where it is.

Caius: So we never catch up.

Tony: Not without paying two months at some point.

Caius: Can I do that across a couple of cycles?

Tony: That's the bit I can't authorise. A payment arrangement has to go to billing and they decide. What I can do is raise the request with your history attached rather than leave you to email in cold.

Caius: Do that. What happens meanwhile?

Tony: Keep paying on the twentieth. As long as something arrives inside the grace period you don't tip into cancellation, so this is a problem to solve rather than an emergency.

Caius: Nobody explained the billing cycle to us in four years.

Tony: I know, and I'm recording that. I'd rather you'd heard it from the welcome pack than from your second phone call.

Caius: So would I. But that's progress.

Duncan: Duncan Cruz, CB-7700155.

Grace: Thanks Duncan.

Duncan: My life cover has gone down and nobody told me. It was fifty thousand, my statement says thirty-two and a half.

Grace: That'll be the age reduction schedule. Group life benefits reduce at set ages — commonly sixty-five and again at seventy.

Duncan: I turned sixty-five in June.

Grace: Then that's it. Sixty-five percent of the original amount is the most common first step, and thirty-two and a half is sixty-five percent of fifty.

Duncan: Nobody has ever mentioned this.

Grace: It's in the certificate and it's almost never raised at enrolment, because at forty nobody is listening to what happens at sixty-five.

Duncan: Does it drop again?

Grace: On most schedules yes, at seventy. I'd rather send you your actual schedule than quote you a typical one, because that's a number you'll want to plan around.

Duncan: Please do. Can I top it up?

Grace: Not through this programme — the cover is employer-paid and set by your employer, so there's no employee election to increase. If you want more, that's an individual policy bought outside.

Duncan: At sixty-five that'll cost.

Grace: It will. Which is why it's worth knowing the schedule now rather than at seventy.

Carlos: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Carlos speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Carlos: Thanks Sunil.

Sunil: We went voluntary on dental at renewal. Denise Whitfield told me we needed twenty-five percent participation or we'd lose it. We're at eighteen percent and I've been panicking for a month.

Carlos: Then I can take the panic away, because that figure isn't right. There is no percentage requirement on voluntary dental at all.

Sunil: None?

Carlos: None. The voluntary requirement is a headcount. For a group your size it's a minimum of ten eligible employees with at least five enrolled. Percentages don't come into it.

Sunil: We've got forty-four eligible and eight enrolled.

Carlos: Then you're comfortably fine and you have been the whole time.

Sunil: A month of worrying about nothing.

Carlos: A month of worrying about a rule that doesn't exist. The seventy percent figure your broker may have been thinking of applies to employer-sponsored dental, which is what you moved away from.

Sunil: So he mixed the two up.

Carlos: I'm not going to characterise why. What I will do is record it, because a broker telling a client a participation rule that doesn't apply to the arrangement they've just sold them is worth Broker Relations knowing about.

Sunil: Is it worth me raising it with him?

Carlos: That's yours to judge. What I'd say is get product rules in writing from now on, from whoever tells you them, including me. I'm sending you the actual requirement today with the reference.

Sunil: Thank you. That's a relief.

Priya: Thanks Uma.

Uma: Our renewal is the first of November and I want to know what I should be doing and when.

Priya: Genuinely the best call you can make in August, because most people ring me in the last week of October. Working backwards: your renewal package comes about sixty days before, so early September.

Uma: And then?

Priya: Your renewal window is the two months before the anniversary — September and October. All enrolment and change forms have to be with us one month before, so the first of October.

Uma: Not the first of November.

Priya: Not the first of November. That's the date people miss, and missing it means the change waits a year.

Uma: What can I change in that window?

Priya: Contribution, the waiting period, minimum hours, moving a line between voluntary and employer-sponsored, and chiropractic design. Those are renewal-only, so this is your one chance at them.

Uma: What about people who waived?

Priya: They can come in at renewal without a qualifying event. Worth telling them explicitly, because they'll assume they're locked out.

Uma: We've been thinking about adding vision. Is that a renewal thing?

Priya: Employer-sponsored vision can actually be added at any time, but doing it at renewal is simpler because you're communicating with everyone anyway. I'll note the interest so it doesn't rest on you remembering.

Uma: Send me a timeline?

Priya: Dates rather than rules, going out today.

REPEAT CONTACT — follows C-0067 | 26 Aug | closed resolved but incorrectly

Sarah: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Sarah speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

> Jolene: Jolene Hobbs, CB-7700202. I rang yesterday about a waiting period on a bridge and was told prior coverage counts for nothing. I wanted a second opinion.

Sarah: I'm glad you rang back, because that isn't the whole answer. There is a takeover credit and it exists precisely for your situation.

> Jolene: So I was told wrong.

Sarah: You were told incompletely. The twelve-month wait on major services applies to groups without comparable prior dental coverage. Where a group came from comparable cover, it's waived.

> Jolene: At group level, not mine.

Sarah: That's the catch, and it's why yesterday's answer wasn't crazy. The credit is applied when the group enrols, not when an individual joins, and it needs proof of twelve consecutive months of prior coverage. There's no partial credit — eleven months gets nothing.

> Jolene: So what do I actually do?

Sarah: First let me check what's on your group... your group took a takeover credit at enrolment. So the waiting period should not be showing against you.

> Jolene: Then why is it?

Sarah: Because you joined after the group did, and the credit was applied to the original enrolees. For a later joiner it turns on your own prior coverage, and there's nothing on file for you.

> Jolene: I have it. I had cover to the day I started here.

Sarah: Then get a certificate of coverage from your previous carrier showing twelve consecutive months. It's the standard document and they're obliged to provide it.

> Jolene: And then?

Sarah: Send it to me and I'll submit it. If it holds up, the waiting period comes off and the bridge is a different conversation.

> Jolene: Nobody mentioned any of this when I joined.

Sarah: No, and they should have. I'm logging that takeover credit is never explained at member level — it's treated as a group underwriting matter and the person it affects never hears about it.

> Jolene: Thank you for not just repeating yesterday.

C-0069 — Broker Conduct

Thu 27 Aug 2026 14:15 · AHT 9m 25s · Escalated or handed off correctly · rules P-09, A-23

EMPLOYER · CON-115 | ESCALATED | score 88/100 | agent AGT-05|Adaeze Nwosu

Adaeze: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Adaeze speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Dagny: Dagny Yamamoto, CON-115.

Adaeze: Thanks. Go ahead.

Dagny: I've been trying to get our broker to put a proposal together since the middle of June. Anthony Salerno. One reply in ten weeks and it said will do.

Adaeze: What are you trying to do?

Dagny: Add vision and chiropractic. We've only got dental and my staff keep asking.

Adaeze: I can take you through the structure so you at least know what you're asking for, and I'll tell you now I'm also going to do something about the silence.

Dagny: Go on then, because at this point I'd take it elsewhere if somebody would just talk to me.

Adaeze: Vision first — you'd pick one carrier for the whole group. If your people are spread out, network density matters more than the allowance, so check your locations before you choose.

Dagny: We're all in one building.

Adaeze: Then it's mostly about which local opticians they already use. Chiropractic — one thing to know before rather than after. Landmark's insured plans are California only. Anyone out of state has nothing at all, and there's no out-of-network payment.

Dagny: Everyone's here.

Adaeze: Then that's not your problem. The other thing on chiro — it has to be one hundred percent employer-paid and one hundred percent participation. There's no voluntary option and no opting out.

Dagny: That's a real cost.

Adaeze: It is, and it's the single most common surprise on that line. Vision you can do voluntary, with no minimum participation at all.

Dagny: This is the conversation I've been trying to have since June.

Adaeze: Then here's what I'm doing. I'm sending you a written summary of both lines today with the participation and payment rules. And I'm escalating the agency's non-response to Broker Relations as a named matter, because ten weeks of silence on a group trying to buy more is not a service complaint, it's a revenue one.

Dagny: Will anyone actually pick it up?

Adaeze: It goes to a named owner today rather than a queue. I'm also flagging the expansion interest to account management so it doesn't depend on the broker.

Kayla: Choice Administrators, Kayla speaking, this call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Sunil: Sunil Quiroga, CB-7700161.

Kayla: Thanks. How can I help?

Sunil: My son broke his glasses. Six weeks after we got them. Is there anything?

Kayla: Not through the plan, I'm afraid — the benefit is once per period and it's been used. But there are two things worth trying before you pay full price.

Sunil: Go on.

Kayla: Most frames carry a manufacturer's warranty of a year against defects, and some opticians include a one-off breakage replacement in what you already paid. Ask them both questions explicitly.

Sunil: He sat on them. That's not a defect.

Kayla: No, but the breakage cover usually doesn't care how. It's worth the phone call.

Sunil: And if not?

Kayla: Then ask about the twenty percent discount on additional pairs — it runs for twelve months from the exam and it applies to a second pair.

Sunil: Nobody told me about that either.

Kayla: It's the least advertised part of a vision plan. Ask by name.

Vidal: Vidal Demir, CB-7700262.

Nicole: Thanks Vidal.

Vidal: I've had a bill from my dentist for two hundred dollars. I'm on the HMO plan and I thought everything was a fixed copay.

Nicole: It is, and that's what makes this worth looking at. On your plan the copayment schedule sets what you pay for each procedure, and you shouldn't be receiving a bill for anything your dental office provided or referred.

Vidal: So they shouldn't have billed me.

Nicole: Possibly not. It depends what the two hundred is for. Do you have the itemised bill?

Vidal: It says procedure not covered.

Nicole: Then either it's genuinely outside the schedule — some things are, cosmetic work for instance — or it's been coded wrong.

Vidal: How do I find out which?

Nicole: The carrier's customer service can tell you, and this is the case where I'd send you to them rather than pretend otherwise. They hold the copayment schedule for your specific plan and the claim detail; I can see neither at the level you need.

Vidal: So you can't help.

Nicole: I can do two things. I'm noting the query so there's a record, and I'm sending you your copayment schedule so you can check the procedure yourself before you ring them.

Vidal: That'd help. I've got no idea what any of these codes mean.

Nicole: The schedule lists them in plain language alongside the codes. If the procedure is on it with a copay lower than two hundred, you have a straightforward conversation with the practice.

Vidal: And if it isn't on it?

Nicole: Then it's genuinely not covered and the bill is right, and at least you'll know. I'd rather you had the document than my guess.

Fenna: Fenna Valdez, CON-179.

James: Thanks Fenna.

Fenna: We've had a check bounce. Bank error, they've admitted it. What do I need to do?

James: Two things, and one of them has a consequence you'll want to know about now.

Fenna: Go on.

James: First, the replacement has to be a cashier's check or money order. We can't take another company check for a returned payment, even when the bank has admitted fault.

Fenna: That's annoying but fine.

James: There's a twenty-five dollar returned item fee, which will appear on your next statement.

Fenna: Even though it was their error?

James: Even though. I'd take that up with the bank rather than us — they'll often reimburse it if they've admitted the fault in writing.

Fenna: And the consequence you mentioned?

James: Three or more returned checks in a twelve-month period and the group moves to certified funds only for a year. Every payment, for twelve months.

Fenna: This is our second.

James: Then that's why I'm telling you. One more and it isn't a conversation, it's automatic.

Fenna: When was the first?

James: February.

Fenna: So the window runs to February.

James: To February. After that the count resets.

Fenna: Right. I'll get the cashier's check out today and have a word with the bank.

Hugo: Choice Administrators, Hugo speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Zora: Zora Pennington, CB-7700264.

Hugo: Thanks Zora.

Zora: My dentist's practice is leaving the network at the end of September. I'm halfway through a root canal.

Hugo: Then there's something you need to ask for specifically, because it won't be offered.

Zora: Go on.

Hugo: Work already started is completed under the plan. Beyond that there's continuity of care, which can let you finish a course of treatment with the same dentist after they've left. But you have to ask for it — it isn't automatic and nobody will volunteer it.

Zora: Who do I ask?

Hugo: The carrier, in writing, and I'd do it this week rather than in October. Say you're mid-treatment, name the procedure and the start date, and use the phrase continuity of care.

Zora: And if they say no?

Hugo: Then the work already started is still completed, so you're not abandoned mid-root-canal. What you'd lose is the follow-up work under the same dentist.

Zora: Would I be reassigned?

Hugo: You would, automatically, and probably not to anyone you'd have chosen. If you'd rather choose, contact them and ask rather than wait for the letter.

Zora: That's a lot I wouldn't have known.

Hugo: Sending you the wording to use.

Deon: Go ahead.

Carmen: We've changed our company name and I need it updated everywhere.

Deon: That's a change request form.

Carmen: I submitted one three weeks ago.

Deon: Let me look... I can see a change on file.

Carmen: Has it been applied?

Deon: There's a change on file.

Carmen: Our invoice still has the old name on it.

Deon: The invoice pulls from the group record.

Carmen: Which you say has been changed.

Deon: There's a change on file, yes.

Carmen: Those aren't the same sentence.

Deon: Let me check the effective date. Bear with me. [hold 2m 30s] Thanks for waiting. The change shows as received.

Carmen: Received, not processed.

Deon: Received.

Carmen: So it's sat there three weeks.

Deon: It's in the queue.

Carmen: Is three weeks normal?

Deon: It varies.

Carmen: Can you find out where it is?

Deon: It'd be with the enrolment team.

Carmen: Can you ask them?

Deon: They'd pick it up in turn.

Carmen: Our cards have the wrong name and my staff can't use them.

Deon: The cards would reissue after the change applies.

Carmen: So nobody can use their dental until an unknown date.

Deon: Eligibility isn't affected by the name.

Carmen: The practices are turning them away.

Deon: They shouldn't be.

Carmen: But they are.

Wendell: Wendell Obi, CB-7700266.

Michael: Thanks Wendell.

Wendell: I'm getting married in October and I want to know what I need to do about adding my wife.

Michael: Good to ask beforehand. You'll have sixty days from the wedding to add her.

Wendell: Sixty days. And when would she be covered from?

Michael: That depends on the date, and the rule is oddly specific. If we have the paperwork before the sixteenth of the month, she's covered from the date of the marriage itself and you pay the full month. On or after the sixteenth, cover starts the first of the following month.

Wendell: We're getting married on the tenth.

Michael: Then if the form is in before the sixteenth of October, she's covered from the tenth.

Wendell: Six days to get it in.

Michael: Six days, and it goes through your employer, so tell them now rather than after the wedding. If it slips past the sixteenth she's covered from the first of November, which is only three weeks later but matters if anything happens in between.

Wendell: I'd never have known to rush.

Michael: Most people don't. Sixty days is the deadline everyone hears; the sixteenth is the one that changes the answer.

Wendell: I'll tell HR this week. Thanks.

Danielle: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Danielle speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Saoirse: Saoirse Demir, CB-7700267.

Danielle: Thanks Saoirse.

Saoirse: I'm having a wisdom tooth out and the surgeon wants to sedate me. He says the sedation might not be covered.

Danielle: He's right to flag it. Sedation is treated separately from the extraction and it turns on why it's being used.

Saoirse: Because I'm terrified.

Danielle: Then that's the answer you don't want. Anxiety alone usually isn't accepted as a medical necessity, so it'd be yours.

Saoirse: And if it were necessary?

Danielle: Where the extraction itself is complex enough to require it, or there's a documented medical reason, it can be covered. The surgeon decides how to document it and the carrier decides from that.

Saoirse: So it depends what he writes.

Danielle: It depends what he writes, and I'd rather tell you that plainly than have you assume it's a coin toss. Ask him to submit a pretreatment estimate including the sedation code.

Saoirse: And I'd know before?

Danielle: You'd know before, in writing, with a number. On sedation that number is usually two to four hundred dollars, so it's worth the two weeks.

Saoirse: Right. I'll ask him tomorrow.

Rosa: Rosa Ferrara, CON-185.

Carlos: Thanks Rosa.

Rosa: There's a COBRA section on our invoice and I don't understand why we're being billed for someone who left.

Carlos: Because they elected continuation, and on this programme the employer is billed for COBRA participants, not the individual.

Rosa: We pay for them?

Carlos: You pay us. They pay you. That's the part nobody expects.

Rosa: Nobody told us we'd be collecting money from ex-employees.

Carlos: It's how it works, and if you aren't collecting it you're currently funding their dental.

Rosa: How much are we talking?

Carlos: It's on the statement, in its own section after the active employees. This month it's one participant.

Rosa: And if he stops paying us?

Carlos: Then you notify us and we cancel the continuation. There's a regulated timeframe for that, and if you notify inside it the credit comes back retroactively on the following invoice.

Rosa: And if we're late notifying?

Carlos: Then you've paid for cover you can't recover. Which is the practical reason to have a process rather than notice it at year end.

Rosa: How much can he be charged?

Carlos: There's a regulated maximum — the premium plus a small administrative percentage. I'd get the exact figure rather than guess, and I'll send it.

Rosa: Please. And how long does he stay on?

Carlos: Up to thirty-six months for a qualifying event under Cal-COBRA. Federal runs shorter for most events.

Rosa: Three years of me invoicing an ex-employee.

Carlos: Potentially. Better to know now.

Cormac: Cormac Reyes, CB-7700179.

Grace: Thanks Cormac.

Cormac: I'm looking at laser eye surgery. Is there anything on my plan?

Grace: Not a benefit, but there is a discount arrangement on most vision designs — typically a percentage off, or a capped price, through contracted providers.

Cormac: How much off?

Grace: It varies by design and by provider, and I'd rather send you your actual terms than quote a number that turns out to be someone else's.

Cormac: Is it worth having?

Grace: On a several-thousand-dollar procedure, usually yes. What it isn't is insurance — there's no claim, no maximum, and if something goes wrong afterwards the plan isn't involved.

Cormac: Would it use up my glasses benefit?

Grace: No. It's a separate discount arrangement and it doesn't touch your exam or your frame allowance.

Cormac: So I could have surgery and still get glasses this year?

Grace: You could, and people do — many still need reading glasses afterwards. I'll send you the discount terms and the contracted provider list.

Cormac: That's more than I expected. Thanks.

Priya: Thanks Duncan.

Duncan: One of my staff is back from a National Guard deployment. Does he have to do the ninety-day wait again?

Priya: No, and this is one of the few places where there's a clean answer in your favour. If he was covered before he went, he can re-enrol without completing the waiting period.

Duncan: Any conditions?

Priya: One that matters. The enrolment form has to be with us within sixty days of his return to work, and it needs a written request to waive the waiting period. It isn't automatic — if the form goes in without that request it'll be processed as a new enrolment and he'll wait.

Duncan: So the form alone isn't enough.

Priya: The form alone isn't enough. It's the single most common way this goes wrong.

Duncan: When did he come back?

Priya: If you tell me the date I'll tell you the deadline.

Duncan: Eighteenth of August.

Priya: Then the seventeenth of October. Plenty of time, but I'd do it this month.

Duncan: And his cover starts?

Priya: First of the month following, so the first of October if it's in during September.

Duncan: I'll get it done. Can you send the wording for the waiver request?

Priya: Sending a template today — he signs it, you attach it to the form.

Sarah: Then let me give you one. The frame allowance exists on your plan and it is not available to you this year, and both of those things are true at once — which is exactly why you've been going round in circles.

Jerome: Explain that.

Sarah: Your plan covers glasses or contacts in a benefit period, not both. You took contacts in March. That used the hardware benefit for the period, so the frame allowance is on the plan and spent for you.

Jerome: Two people told me it was there.

Sarah: They were reading the plan entitlement rather than your remaining benefit, and our screen shows those in the same place, which is our problem and not yours. I'm logging it.

Jerome: So when can I get glasses?

Sarah: When your period resets. Let me check... your last exam was the fourth of March, so twelfth of March next year for lenses and frames on your design.

Jerome: Six months.

Sarah: Six months for the covered pair. But there are two things that might help before then.

Jerome: Go on.

Sarah: There's a twenty percent discount on additional glasses from any VSP doctor within twelve months of your last exam. It's not a benefit, it's a discount, but on a two hundred dollar frame it's real.

Jerome: And the other?

Sarah: If your prescription has actually changed since March, ask the optometrist to note that. A prescription change sometimes opens the benefit early, and it's worth asking rather than assuming.

Jerome: Nobody offered either of those.

Sarah: No. And I'm sorry it took three calls — you were asking a clear question and getting a sentence about the plan instead of an answer about you.

Jerome: Thank you. That's what I needed in July.

Linda: Choice Administrators, Linda speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Vera: Vera Fairweather, CON-187.

Linda: Thanks Vera.

Vera: We're a five-person company and I've got one person who doesn't want dental. Does that break anything?

Linda: Depends how you're set up. Let me look — you're on voluntary dental.

Vera: Yes.

Linda: Then the requirement is headcount, not percentage. For a group of two to nine on your carrier it's a minimum of two eligible with two enrolled.

Vera: We'd have three enrolled.

Linda: Then you're fine, with room.

Vera: And if we were employer-sponsored?

Linda: Then it's seventy percent, and one out of five would put you at eighty, so still fine. It's tighter but not a problem at your size.

Vera: Good. Do I need anything from him?

Linda: You do, and it's the important part of this call. He has to complete the waiver section of the enrolment form, and you have to keep it.

Vera: He's told me verbally.

Linda: That isn't enough, and the reason matters. Under the state code the employer has to obtain and retain the written waiver. If he later says he never declined and seeks coverage, the employer can be liable for the healthcare costs.

Vera: For a five-person company that could be ruinous.

Linda: Which is why I'd get it signed this week rather than at renewal. I'll send you the form now.

Vera: Thank you. I had no idea.

Tiffany: Choice Administrators, Tiffany speaking, this call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Marek: Marek Demir, CB-7700272.

Tiffany: Go ahead.

Marek: A claim from June has been denied and the reason says documentation not received. Nobody asked me for documentation.

Tiffany: Let me look... it says additional information requested.

Marek: Requested from whom?

Tiffany: It doesn't say.

Marek: Can you find out?

Tiffany: Usually it goes to the provider rather than the member.

Marek: So the dentist has been asked and hasn't sent it.

Tiffany: That'd be the usual pattern.

Marek: Can you confirm it?

Tiffany: Not from here, no — I can see the request went out, not who it went to.

Marek: That seems like something worth recording.

Tiffany: It is. What I can do is raise a query to get the detail, and separately I'd ring the practice and ask whether they've had a request on that date. Between the two you'll find it.

Marek: How long for the query?

Tiffany: Ten working days.

Marek: And the claim in the meantime?

Tiffany: Stays denied. If the documentation lands it can be reprocessed — a denial for missing information isn't final.

Marek: That's something. Raise the query.

EMPLOYER · CON-189 | RESOLVED | score 88/100 | agent AGT-05|Adaeze Nwosu

Adaeze: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Adaeze speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Yolanda: Yolanda Wexler, CON-189.

Adaeze: Thanks Yolanda.

Yolanda: We're a staffing firm. We turn over fifteen to twenty people a month and the invoice is never right. I spend half a day a month on it.

Adaeze: Can I ask how you're filing the changes?

Yolanda: Through the portal, one at a time, the day they happen.

Adaeze: Then the accuracy isn't your problem. The timing is. Individual changes post against the next open billing cycle, so somebody leaving on the twenty-eighth who you file on the twenty-ninth still bills for the following month and you reclaim it afterwards.

Yolanda: So it's structural.

Adaeze: It's structural. And there's something that makes it worse at your churn rate — you can't file a termination before the last day of employment. Requests made in advance can't be processed at all.

Yolanda: We do that. We file the day they give notice.

Adaeze: Then those aren't landing, and that may be a chunk of what you're seeing. File on or after the last day, not before.

Yolanda: Nobody has ever told me that.

Adaeze: It's in the guide and nobody reads the guide. Two more things worth knowing. Don't self-adjust the invoice — pay as billed and the credit appears on the statement after the termination processes. If you short-pay, we chase a balance and the correction at the same time.

Yolanda: We've been short-paying.

Adaeze: Then that's probably why some of this feels like it never resolves. And the last one, which is a compliance point rather than a billing one — Cal-COBRA requires you to tell us about every termination within thirty days of the last day worked, whether or not they're taking continuation.

Yolanda: Every one?

Adaeze: Every one. At your churn that's a process rather than a memory.

Yolanda: Right. Can you send all four of those?

Adaeze: Going out today, and I'm raising a reconciliation for July and August so we start from a clean number.

Bianca: Bianca Aziz, CB-7700274.

Kayla: Thanks. How can I help?

Bianca: I'm moving to Oregon next month for work. Same employer, working remotely. Does my dental follow me?

Kayla: Depends which plan you're on, and yours is the HMO — which is California only. Outside the state you'd have no network at all.

Bianca: So I lose it.

Kayla: You don't lose the cover, but it becomes unusable, which amounts to the same thing.

Bianca: Can I switch to the other plan?

Kayla: You can, and this is one of the few mid-year carrier changes that's allowed — moving to an area where your current carrier has no providers is a permitted reason.

Bianca: So I don't wait for renewal.

Kayla: You don't wait. Tell your employer before you move and get the change form in, because the switch takes effect from the first of a month and you don't want a gap.

Bianca: That's a relief. Thank you.

Grace: Grace MacAllister, CB-7700275.

Tony: Go ahead.

Grace: I've had two explanation of benefits letters for the same appointment with different numbers on them.

Tony: Let me look... I can see two claim lines for that date.

Grace: Two claims for one appointment?

Tony: They may have billed the procedures separately.

Grace: But the totals are different from each other and neither matches the bill.

Tony: The bill would be the provider's.

Grace: Yes. And it doesn't match either of your letters.

Tony: Let me check the second line. Bear with me. [hold 2m 15s] Thanks for holding. The second one appears to be an adjustment.

Grace: Adjusting what?

Tony: Adjusting the first.

Grace: So the first one was wrong?

Tony: It's been adjusted.

Grace: Which of the two numbers do I owe?

Tony: The most recent should be current.

Grace: Should be.

Tony: It would normally supersede.

Grace: Can you tell me the amount I owe?

Tony: The patient responsibility on the second line is one hundred and forty.

Grace: The dentist is asking for two hundred and five.

Tony: Then there may be a further adjustment pending.

Grace: Is there or isn't there?

Tony: I can't see a pending adjustment.

Grace: So the dentist is wrong?

Tony: I couldn't say without the provider's detail.

Grace: I've been on eleven minutes and I still don't know what I owe.

Tony: The letter should be the guide.

Ingrid: Ingrid Baptiste, CON-192.

James: Thanks Ingrid.

Ingrid: We're about to hire eight people which takes us from a hundred and ninety-five to two hundred and three. Does anything change?

James: Good question to ask before rather than after, and yes, two things.

Ingrid: Go on.

James: The administration fee steps. Up to a hundred and ninety-nine it's thirty-five dollars a month. At two hundred it's fifty.

Ingrid: Fifteen dollars.

James: Fifteen dollars, and it's recalculated monthly on the number enrolled at the time of invoicing. So if you dip back under two hundred it drops again without anyone telling you.

Ingrid: That's minor. What's the second?

James: Your participation maths changes, and that's the one to watch. You're on employer-sponsored dental with a seventy percent requirement. Eight new hires are eight people in the denominator from the day they're eligible, whether or not they enrol.

Ingrid: So my percentage drops before it recovers.

James: Exactly. Where are you now?

Ingrid: Seventy-four percent, I think.

James: Then eight non-enrolling hires would take you to around seventy-one. Two of them declining and one existing member dropping would put you under.

Ingrid: And the review is at anniversary.

James: At anniversary. So the practical advice is to make sure the new starters actually enrol rather than assuming they will, because at your margin the drift matters.

Ingrid: That's genuinely useful. Nobody frames it that way.

James: I'll send you your current figure and the threshold so you can watch it as they come on.

Hugo: Thanks Nikhil.

Nikhil: I've been seeing a chiropractor for two months and he's just told me he's leaving the network. He's suggested I keep coming and claim it back.

Hugo: Then I need to stop you there, because that advice will cost you money. There is no out-of-network benefit on this plan at all. Not reduced — none. If he's out of network you pay the entire cost.

Nikhil: He said I'd get most of it back.

Hugo: He's wrong, and I'd rather you heard it from me now than after four visits.

Nikhil: So what do I do?

Hugo: Two choices. Stay with him and pay privately, or move to another in-network provider, which you can do at any time with no referral and no permission.

Nikhil: Starting over with someone new.

Hugo: I know. If continuity matters more than cost, staying with him is a legitimate choice — just make it knowing it's full price.

Nikhil: When does he actually leave?

Hugo: I'd ask him for the date in writing. If it's a few weeks away you might get the rest of your course finished in network.

Nikhil: That's worth asking. Thank you — I'd have carried on and had a shock.

Sunil: Sunil Quiroga, CON-103.

Nicole: Thanks Sunil.

Sunil: We're adding chiropractic at renewal. Marcus Trent set it up as voluntary so employees pay for it themselves. I want to check the payroll deduction before we announce it.

Nicole: Then I need to correct something before you announce anything. Chiropractic can't be voluntary on this programme. It has to be one hundred percent employer-paid and one hundred percent participation.

Sunil: That's not what we agreed.

Nicole: It may be what you agreed with your broker. It isn't an option that exists.

Sunil: So there's no employee-paid version at all.

Nicole: None. The confusion is understandable because vision can be voluntary and has no participation minimum at all — so if you've been shown vision and chiro side by side, they behave completely differently.

Sunil: We were shown them side by side.

Nicole: Then that's probably where this came from.

Sunil: What does that do to the cost?

Nicole: Everything, potentially. You'd be paying for every eligible employee rather than the ones who opt in. That's a different budget conversation and it's better had now than in January.

Sunil: Can you quote it?

Nicole: I can't — rating sits with your broker or with sales, not with me. What I can do is give you the rules in writing today so the next conversation starts from the right place.

Sunil: Do that. And is this worth raising with him?

Nicole: That's your call. I'm recording it, because a payment and participation rule misstated at design stage isn't a small thing.

Yolanda: Yolanda Okonjo, CB-7700277.

Farrah: Thanks Yolanda.

Yolanda: I want to know how many cleanings I get a year. My dentist says two, my friend on a different plan gets four.

Farrah: Two is standard on most designs here. Some plans allow more where there's a documented periodontal condition, but that's clinical rather than automatic.

Yolanda: I do have gum problems. That's why he mentioned it.

Farrah: Then it's worth him submitting it properly rather than you assuming either way. If there's a diagnosis supporting more frequent cleaning, some designs allow three or four.

Yolanda: How does he do that?

Farrah: He submits with the perio diagnosis codes. It's not a special form, it's how he codes the claim.

Yolanda: And if my plan doesn't allow it?

Farrah: Then you'd pay for the extra ones, but at the network rate rather than full price.

Yolanda: That's worth knowing either way. Thanks.

Sarah: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Sarah speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Rasmus: Rasmus Nkemdi, CON-114.

Sarah: Thanks Rasmus.

Rasmus: We've had a letter confirming a change of broker of record to an agency we have never spoken to. Nobody here signed anything.

Sarah: That is serious and I want to be careful with it. Let me look at the record rather than tell you what usually happens.

Rasmus: Please.

Sarah: I can see a broker of record change processed on the second of September, effective the first of October.

Rasmus: On what basis?

Sarah: There's a signed letter on file. I can see it exists. I'm not going to characterise the signature on it, because that isn't a judgement I should be making on a phone call.

Rasmus: Whose name is on it?

Sarah: It reads as a signature for the group. I'd rather send you the document than describe it to you.

Rasmus: Send it. Because nobody here signed that.

Sarah: Here's what I'm doing. First, I'm placing a hold on the change so the first of October doesn't pass with it in effect.

Rasmus: You can do that?

Sarah: A contested change suspends the effective date while it's contested. Your existing broker stays in place meanwhile.

Rasmus: Good.

Sarah: Second, this goes to Broker Relations as a contested broker of record — not a query. That means a named owner today, not a queue. Third, I'm emailing you the document on file so you can see exactly what was submitted.

Rasmus: And if the signature isn't ours?

Sarah: Then it stops being a broker dispute and becomes something else, and it goes to Compliance rather than to me. I want to be straight that I can start that and I can't finish it.

Rasmus: That's the right answer. I'll say this though — if somebody has forged our signature to move our account, we will not be renewing with any of you in March. Not the broker. Any of you.

Sarah: Understood, and I'm recording that as said rather than softening it. I'm also routing the account to Account Management today as a retention matter, separately from the conduct investigation, because those need different people.

Rasmus: Thank you. When do I hear?

Sarah: Document within the hour, named contact by end of day. Reply to that email if either is missing.

Michael: Thanks Rasmus.

Rasmus: This is a difficult call. My husband has been given a terminal diagnosis. Somebody mentioned there might be something we can access early.

Michael: I'm very sorry. There is, and I'll take you through it carefully. It's called an accelerated death benefit, and it lets a portion of the life benefit be paid out during life where there's a terminal prognosis.

Rasmus: How much?

Michael: Up to a cap, and the policy keeps a minimum face amount behind so there's still a benefit at the end. What's paid early reduces what's paid later — it isn't additional money.

Rasmus: We understood that.

Michael: The prognosis usually has to be certified by a physician, typically twelve months or less. That certification comes from his doctor, not from you.

Rasmus: Is my husband the one who has to apply, or can I?

Michael: It's his benefit and his election, so it would normally be him or someone with authority to act for him. If that's a difficulty, tell me and I'll find out what the carrier accepts rather than guess.

Rasmus: He's able at the moment.

Michael: Then I'd start now while that's true. I'm sending you the claim form and the carrier's direct number today, and I'd suggest speaking to them rather than working through me — they handle these all the time and they'll be quicker and kinder than a relay.

Rasmus: Thank you. You've been very clear.

Michael: If anything is unclear when the form arrives, ring back and ask for me by name.

Danielle: Then I'd ask him to wait, and I want to explain why rather than just say no.

Nadira: Go on.

Danielle: A dependent removed before the divorce is final can't be reinstated until renewal. If a court orders him to maintain cover for her during proceedings — which happens frequently — he'd be unable to comply.

Nadira: He hasn't mentioned a court order.

Danielle: They often come later, and by then the cover is gone and he's stuck. I'd rather he knew the consequence than acted on feeling.

Nadira: And when it is final?

Danielle: Then it's a qualifying event. Cover ends at the end of the month following the divorce, provided we're told within sixty days.

Nadira: Sixty days from the decree.

Danielle: From the event, yes. And she'd be entitled to continuation, which is a separate notification.

Nadira: So there's a process either way.

Danielle: There is, and it works properly if he waits. I'll send you both paths in writing so he can see the difference — I suspect that'll be more persuasive from a document than from you.

Nadira: That's exactly right. Send it.

Grace: Choice Administrators, Grace speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Uma: Uma Ferrara, CB-7700280.

Grace: Thanks Uma.

Uma: My annual maximum seems to have gone up and I don't understand why. It was fifteen hundred, now it says seventeen fifty.

Grace: That's a rewards carryover, and it's a good surprise for once.

Uma: Meaning?

Grace: On your carrier, if you use less than a certain amount of your benefit in a year, some benefit carries into the next. Usually two hundred and fifty, plus a bit more if you stayed in network.

Uma: So because I barely went last year.

Grace: Because you barely went last year and you stayed in network, yes.

Uma: Does it keep building?

Grace: Up to a ceiling, and it stops if you have a year where you use a lot, or if you have a break in coverage.

Uma: So there's a reason not to skip a year of cover.

Grace: There is, and it's the part nobody realises they're throwing away. If you'd dropped the plan for a year you'd have lost the accumulation.

Uma: I was actually thinking about dropping it.

Grace: Then that's worth factoring in. I'll send you your current accumulated amount so it's a number rather than an abstraction.

Uma: Please. Thank you.

Kayla: Choice Administrators, Kayla speaking, this call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Tamsin: Tamsin Petrova, CB-7700281.

Kayla: Thanks. How can I help?

Tamsin: I'm deaf and I'd like to know whether there's a way to contact you other than by phone. My wife is making this call for me.

Kayla: There is — there's a relay service you can use to reach us, and the carrier has a TTY line. I'd rather give you both than have you rely on one.

Tamsin: Is there anything online? Messaging?

Kayla: There's a portal with secure messaging, and honestly for most things that's going to be easier than any phone route. Response time is usually a couple of days rather than immediate, which is the trade.

Tamsin: A couple of days is fine. It's better than this.

Kayla: Let me be honest about one thing — I don't know how good our secure messaging is for complex questions, because I don't work in that channel. It may be that simple queries go well and complicated ones end up back on the phone.

Tamsin: That's more useful than being told it's perfect.

Kayla: I'll send the relay details, the TTY number and the portal link. And I'm noting that you asked, because how we'd handle this properly isn't something I could answer as well as I should have.

EMPLOYER · CON-198 | RESOLVED | score 87/100 | agent AGT-02|Carlos Mendez

Carlos: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Carlos speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Harold: Harold Roux, CON-198.

Carlos: Thanks Harold.

Harold: We want to move dental from employer-paid to voluntary at renewal. Costs have got away from us.

Carlos: That's a permitted change at renewal. There are two eligibility conditions and one consequence, so let me give you all three.

Harold: Go on.

Carlos: Conditions first. To go voluntary you need at least five enrolled and a group of at least ten eligible.

Harold: We've got thirty-one eligible, twenty-three enrolled.

Carlos: Then you qualify comfortably.

Harold: And the consequence?

Carlos: Enrolment will fall. When employees start paying the whole premium, take-up drops, often sharply. That's not a warning against doing it — it's the normal outcome and you should plan for it.

Harold: How far?

Carlos: I won't guess at your workforce. What I'd say is the requirement changes with you. On employer-sponsored you need seventy percent; on voluntary you need a headcount, five enrolled. So paradoxically you're safer on the requirement after the change than before it.

Harold: That's counterintuitive.

Carlos: It is, and it's the single most misunderstood thing about voluntary. There's no percentage at all.

Harold: So if we dropped to eight enrolled we'd be fine.

Carlos: On the requirement, fine. Whether eight people's worth of dental is worth administering is your judgement.

Harold: Fair. What's the timing?

Carlos: Renewal only, and the forms have to be with us a month before your anniversary. And don't tell your staff it's done until you have written confirmation of approval — benefits can't be accessed on the new basis until that's issued.

Harold: That's the mistake I'd have made. Thank you.

MEMBER · CB-7700199 | RESOLVED | score 86/100 | agent AGT-04|Priya Anand

Priya: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Priya speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Rafael: Rafael Okafor, CB-7700199.

Priya: Thanks Rafael.

Rafael: I left my job at the end of August. I've had a letter about continuing dental but nothing about the life insurance. Does that just stop?

Priya: It stops, but you may have a right to convert it, and I'm glad you asked because the window is short and nobody tells people about it.

Rafael: How short?

Priya: Thirty-one days from the day your group cover ended. Your last day was the end of August, so cover would have run to the end of September — which means your window is only just opening.

Rafael: And what does converting mean?

Priya: You can take out an individual whole life policy with the same insurer, with no medical questions at all. No health check, no questionnaire.

Rafael: Even with a pre-existing condition?

Priya: Even with. That's the value of it. If your health has changed, this may be cover you cannot buy any other way.

Rafael: Nobody has mentioned this to me at all.

Priya: The responsibility for the initial notification sits with your former employer, and it's one of the least well-handled parts of the whole programme. I'm logging that it isn't in the standard leaver pack.

Rafael: Will it be expensive?

Priya: Individual whole life usually costs considerably more than group term. But you'll be deciding with a quote in front of you rather than wondering, and that's the point.

Rafael: What do I do?

Priya: I'm sending you the conversion request today with the carrier details and the exact date your window closes. It'll be a date on a page, not a rule in your head.

Rafael: Thank you. I'd have lost that completely.

EMPLOYER · CON-199 | ESCALATED | score 89/100 | agent AGT-05|Adaeze Nwosu

Adaeze: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Adaeze speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Yannick: Yannick Whitmore, CON-199.

Adaeze: Thanks Yannick. Go ahead.

Yannick: An employee has just been refused treatment at the dentist. They're saying we're cancelled. This is the first I've heard of it.

Adaeze: Let me look before I say anything... cover terminated on the thirty-first of August for non-payment of the August premium.

Yannick: We pay every month.

Adaeze: The last payment received was on the twenty-second of July.

Yannick: We've sent checks.

Adaeze: Then either they haven't arrived or they've gone somewhere else. Where are you sending them?

Yannick: The address on the bottom of the invoice.

Adaeze: Can you read it to me?

Yannick: [reads address]

Adaeze: That's a lockbox we stopped using in March. There'd have been a notice of the change.

Yannick: We've had no notice, and no notice of cancellation either.

Adaeze: Three letters should have gone — the twenty-fifth of July, the fourteenth of August and the confirmation on the first of September. All by post, to the address on the group record.

Yannick: Which may also be wrong, because we moved in February and I don't know if anyone told you.

Adaeze: Then that's the root of all of it, and it means five months of correspondence has gone to an empty building.

Yannick: We have forty people who think they have dental and don't. One of them is sitting in a dentist's chair.

Adaeze: Then here is the route back and it has a clock. A written reinstatement request within fourteen days of the termination effective date, which was the thirty-first of August — so that window has closed.

Yannick: So we can't be reinstated.

Adaeze: Not automatically. It goes to billing for an exception decision, and the address failure is exactly the kind of fact they weigh. I'm not going to promise you an outcome I don't control.

Yannick: If forty people lose dental because you posted to a building we left in February, we will be taking the whole programme out at renewal and I'd rather you heard that now.

Adaeze: Noted as said, and I'm escalating on two tracks rather than one. Billing get the reinstatement request today with the full address history and the returned mail attached. Account Management get the account today as a retention matter.

Yannick: And my employee in the chair?

Adaeze: Tell them to pay and keep the itemised receipt. If reinstatement is granted it's retroactive and the claim can be submitted. If it isn't, at least they haven't lost the treatment.

Yannick: Alright. That's practical.

Adaeze: And I'm changing your address on the record now so that whatever happens next reaches you. I'm also logging that cancellation notices go by post only — a five-month failure that an email would have caught in a day.
