NanoVox — Corpus v9 · Transcripts, batch 2a rev-2 (C-0101 to C-0150 of 600)

Every caller_ref resolves to a record in the v9 Member Master or Employer Contacts; the name spoken in the call is the name on that record; where a broker is named aloud it is that employer's broker of record; and where a product line is tagged the group actually holds it. Employer, industry, group size and renewal month are not repeated here — they join from caller_ref. A dash under rules means the call is not governed by a published rule.

Brad: Choice Administrators, Brad.

Hollis: Hollis Stavros, CB-7700094. I want to increase my life cover.

Brad: How much are you after?

Hollis: Double what I've got. We've just had a second child.

Brad: You'd fill in an election form.

Hollis: Where do I get that?

Brad: It'd come through your employer.

Hollis: And then I pay the extra through payroll?

Brad: That'd be the usual way.

Hollis: So I just ask HR.

Brad: Ask HR, yes.

Hollis: And there's no medical or anything?

Brad: There can be above a certain amount.

Hollis: Which is what?

Brad: It varies by plan.

Hollis: Right. I'll ask them.

Brad: Thanks for calling.

Grace: Choice Administrators, Grace speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Omar: Omar Liu, CB-7700001.

Grace: Thanks Omar.

Omar: I'm going for glasses on Saturday and I want to know what I'm actually going to pay before I'm standing at the till.

Grace: Best call you can make, honestly. Three things and they behave differently. You've a copay, which is fixed. You've a frame allowance, which is a budget, not a discount. And lenses run on their own schedule, separate from the frame.

Omar: Budget meaning if the frame costs more I pay the difference.

Grace: The whole difference. The plan pays up to the number and stops. It doesn't pay a percentage of what's above it.

Omar: That's the bit I'd have got wrong.

Grace: Most people do. The other one that catches people is lens upgrades — progressive, anti-reflective, the thin high-index lenses. Those carry their own copays or aren't covered at all, and they're the single most common reason a bill comes in higher than expected.

Omar: I do need progressives.

Grace: Then ask for that cost separately before you commit. And ask the practice to run a benefit breakdown — any VSP office can do it. It shows you what the plan pays and what's yours, itemised, before they order anything.

Omar: Nobody's ever offered me that.

Grace: They rarely volunteer it. Ask by name. I'll email you your allowances and that wording now so you've got it on your phone on Saturday.

Omar: That's exactly what I needed. Thank you.

Carlos: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Carlos speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Uma: Uma Wexler, CB-7700018.

Carlos: Thanks Uma. Go ahead.

Uma: I've been charged twice for the same pair of glasses. Two hundred and forty dollars on the eleventh and again on the nineteenth. Same practice, same order.

Carlos: Let me look at the claim before I say anything. I can see one claim for that order.

Uma: So they've taken my card twice.

Carlos: That's what it looks like, and I want to be careful here, because that's a charge the practice made, not a claim we paid. I can't see your card statement and I can't reverse a provider charge.

Uma: So there's nothing you can do.

Carlos: That isn't what I said. There are two things I can do and one you should do.

Uma: Go on.

Carlos: I'm raising this with Provider Relations as a duplicate billing enquiry. A practice taking a second payment on a single claim is something they want to know about, and it goes to a named owner rather than a note on your record.

Uma: Will anything come of it?

Carlos: They'll contact the practice. I'm not going to promise you a refund lands on a particular day. What I can promise is it doesn't sit here.

Uma: And the second thing?

Carlos: I'm sending you the claim as we processed it — one order, one payment, the amount you should have paid. That's the document that settles an argument with a billing office.

Uma: And what should I do?

Carlos: Ring the practice's billing office with that in front of you, and if they won't move, ask your card issuer about a duplicate transaction. That route is usually faster than either of us.

Uma: That's more useful than I expected. Thank you.

Linda: Choice Administrators, Linda speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Jerome: Jerome Arellano, CB-7700050. Our broker Patricia Nunez sent round a one-page summary when we enrolled, so I know my exam is done and my frames are due in March. I'm ringing about contacts.

Linda: That summary makes this a much shorter call, so thank her for me. What's the question?

Jerome: Can I have contacts now and still take the frames in March?

Linda: No, and this is the rule people find hardest. It's glasses or contacts in a benefit period, not both. If you take contacts now, the frame benefit goes with it.

Jerome: Even though they're different things?

Linda: Even though. It's one hardware benefit and you choose how to spend it.

Jerome: So March isn't a separate allowance, it's the same one.

Linda: It's the same one, and taking contacts now uses it.

Jerome: Is there any way round that?

Linda: Not on the plan. There's a twenty percent discount on additional purchases within twelve months of your exam, so a second pair isn't full price, but it isn't a benefit either.

Jerome: What if my prescription changes?

Linda: Then it's worth asking. A genuine prescription change sometimes opens the benefit early, and it's a question for the optometrist rather than for me — but they have to note it, it doesn't happen because you mention it.

Jerome: Can you tell me whether mine has?

Linda: I can't see your prescription, only the claim. So that's an open question for them, not something I can close today.

Jerome: Fair enough. I'll ask at the appointment.

Linda: I'll send you the discount terms and the rule in writing so you can put it in front of them.

Idris: Idris Fraser, CB-7700064.

Danielle: Thanks Idris.

Idris: I've moved to Reno for six months on a job. Can I keep seeing a chiropractor out there?

Danielle: Not under the plan, and I'd rather be blunt about that than have you find out at the front desk. Landmark's insured plans are California only.

Idris: So it's reduced cover out of state.

Danielle: It's no cover. They don't pay anything out of network, at any rate. You'd carry the whole cost.

Idris: That's a hard rule.

Danielle: It is, and it's the single most misunderstood thing about that line. People assume out of network means cheaper. Here it means nothing.

Idris: Six months is a long time to go without.

Danielle: It is. Two things worth knowing. If you're back in California at any point — a weekend, a site visit — you can use the benefit those days, and there's no referral and no authorisation, so you can book same-day.

Idris: And the second?

Danielle: Your visit allowance doesn't pause while you're away. It runs on the plan year regardless, so if you were planning a course of treatment, front-loading it before you go is worth considering.

Idris: When do I leave — three weeks.

Danielle: Then that's three weeks of covered visits available to you now that won't be there in Nevada.

Idris: Can you tell me how many I've got left?

Danielle: It's on your benefit summary and it varies by design. I'd rather send you your actual number than give you a typical one and have you plan around the wrong figure. It'll be with you today.

Idris: That's useful. Thank you for not pretending otherwise.

James: Choice Administrators, James speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Sunil: Sunil Quiroga, CON-103.

James: Thanks Sunil. Go ahead.

Sunil: Four people left in June and July. All four are still on my invoice, I've had no credits, and I'm now worried about the COBRA side as well.

James: Let me take those as three things, because the third is the one with a legal deadline on it and I don't want it lost behind the billing.

Sunil: Alright.

James: First, the terminations. I can see four submissions — all four filed before the employee's last day of employment.

Sunil: We file when they give notice.

James: That's the problem, and it isn't obvious. A termination submitted before the last day worked can't be processed at all. It doesn't queue, it doesn't apply later. It fails.

Sunil: So all four just vanished.

James: All four. And nothing told you.

Sunil: Then that's why there are no credits.

James: That's the second thing, yes. I'm raising a reconciliation back to June, and any premium billed past a termination date comes back as a credit against a future invoice, not as a refund. Don't short-pay in the meantime or we'll be chasing a balance and a correction at once.

Sunil: And the COBRA?

James: This is the one that matters most. You're under twenty employees, so Cal-COBRA applies and we send the election notice — but only for leavers we know about. If the terminations never landed, we never knew, and four notices may not have gone out.

Sunil: How late are we?

James: Two of them are past the thirty-day notification window. I'm not going to soften that.

Sunil: What do I do?

James: I'm escalating on both fronts now. Billing get the reconciliation. Compliance get the late notification, because a Cal-COBRA notice that didn't go is not a billing query and shouldn't be handled as one. Both to named owners today.

Sunil: Am I in trouble?

James: I'm not the person to answer that and I won't guess. What I can tell you is the facts are documented, the dates are on the record, and it's being raised rather than sitting.

Sunil: And the filing rule?

James: On or after the last day worked, never before. I'm sending that in writing, because at your turnover it'll happen again otherwise.

Priya: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Priya speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Duncan: Duncan Cruz, CB-7700155.

Priya: Thanks Duncan.

Duncan: I'm being made redundant at the end of the month. I asked our broker — Nadine Frost — whether I could keep the life insurance and she said it just ends. Is that right?

Priya: It ends as group cover, but that isn't the whole answer, and I'm glad you asked us as well.

Duncan: Meaning what?

Priya: You have a conversion right. Within thirty-one days of your group cover ending you can convert to an individual whole life policy with no medical questions at all.

Duncan: None?

Priya: None. No health check, no questionnaire. If your health has changed since you were hired, that's cover you may not be able to buy anywhere else.

Duncan: I've had a heart thing in the last two years.

Priya: Then this matters considerably more than it would for someone who hadn't.

Duncan: Thirty-one days from when exactly?

Priya: From the day your group cover ends, not your last day at work — those differ. Your last day is the thirty-first, so cover runs to the end of August, and your window closes at the end of September.

Duncan: Nobody told me any of this.

Priya: The initial notification is your employer's responsibility and it's one of the least well-handled parts of the whole programme. I'm logging that, and separately I'm recording that the advice you got was incomplete.

Duncan: Will it be expensive?

Priya: Individual whole life usually costs a good deal more than group term. But you'll decide with a quote in front of you rather than wondering, and that's the point of the window.

Duncan: Send me whatever I need.

Priya: Conversion request, carrier contact and the exact date your window closes, going out today. A date on a page, not a rule in your head.

Fiona: Fiona Bakri, CB-7700020.

Hugo: Thanks Fiona.

Fiona: My GP has suggested acupuncture for migraines. I've got the chiropractic cover — is acupuncture anything to do with that?

Hugo: It is, and this catches people constantly. The line is chiropractic and acupuncture together, not chiropractic alone. Same plan, same network, same copay structure.

Fiona: I'd assumed it was two different things.

Hugo: The name on most of the paperwork says chiro, which doesn't help. Landmark contracts both.

Fiona: Do I need a referral from the GP?

Hugo: No. You self-refer, there's no authorisation, and nobody reviews whether the treatment is necessary. Book it directly.

Fiona: And the visits — is it a separate allowance from chiropractic?

Hugo: That's the part worth knowing before you start. On most designs it's a single combined annual maximum across both. So acupuncture visits draw down the same pot as chiropractic ones.

Fiona: I've had four chiropractic sessions this year.

Hugo: Then those have already come off it, and you'd be planning acupuncture against what's left rather than a fresh count.

Fiona: How many are left?

Hugo: I'll send you your combined maximum and I'd ring the carrier for the used count, which is live and I can't see it.

Fiona: One more thing — he mentioned herbs.

Hugo: Herbal therapies aren't covered unless your employer added the rider, and most haven't. Ask what they cost separately before you agree to them.

Fiona: That's three things I'd have got wrong. Thank you.

Blythe: Go on.

Adaeze: First, eligibility, because that decides the rest. She's showing as added, effective the first of May.

Blythe: She was born on the eleventh.

Adaeze: Then that's right and it's in your favour — a birth before the sixteenth means cover from the first of that month, not from the date you filed.

Blythe: So she was covered when the dentist turned her away.

Adaeze: She was covered. Which makes that a verification failure at the practice rather than an eligibility problem, and it's the second thing.

Blythe: They said they couldn't find her.

Adaeze: Almost certainly because they searched under the programme name rather than the carrier. That's the commonest reason a dependent can't be located.

Blythe: And the card?

Adaeze: Third thing, and this is ours. A mid-year dependent addition doesn't always trigger a card run — the production job picks up new enrolments, and an added dependent on an existing member falls between the two. So no card was ever produced.

Blythe: So I've been chasing the post for four months.

Adaeze: You have, and there was nothing coming. I'm sending a digital card in the next few minutes and requesting a physical one.

Blythe: And the appointment she missed?

Adaeze: Fourth thing, and the one I can't close today. If she was seen and charged, keep the itemised receipt and it can be claimed. If she was turned away without treatment, there's nothing to claim and the cost is a missed appointment, which I can't recover for you.

Blythe: She was turned away.

Adaeze: Then I'm sorry. What I can do is make sure it doesn't happen at the rebooked one — the digital card names the carrier at the top, and I'd ask them to search that.

Blythe: So three of the four are fixed.

Adaeze: Three fixed, one I can't. I'd rather say that than leave you expecting a refund.

Adaeze: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Adaeze speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Vidal: Vidal Haddad, CB-7700279.

Adaeze: Thanks Vidal.

Vidal: My daughter's orthodontist wants to start braces in September. I want to know what's covered before I sign anything.

Adaeze: Let me check the group first, because on orthodontia the first question isn't what's covered, it's whether it's available at all.

Vidal: How do you mean?

Adaeze: Ortho availability depends on the carrier and how many employees the group has. There are minimum sizes, and they differ by carrier.

Vidal: We're a tiny firm. Three of us.

Adaeze: Then I need to tell you plainly — on a group of three, ortho isn't available on most of the carriers at all. Let me check yours specifically... it isn't on your plan.

Vidal: So there's no waiting period, there's just nothing.

Adaeze: There's nothing. Which is a worse answer but a clearer one, and better now than after you've signed a treatment plan.

Vidal: Would it be there if we were bigger?

Adaeze: On some carriers at five eligible employees, on others at ten. If your firm grows it becomes a real conversation at renewal.

Vidal: We might take on two people next year.

Adaeze: Then raise it at renewal and get it confirmed in writing before you rely on it. I'll send you the availability thresholds by carrier so you know what to ask for.

Vidal: That's genuinely useful. At least I know where I stand.

Hugo: Thanks Grace.

Grace: The optician says they can't find me. They've tried twice and given up.

Hugo: What are they searching under?

Grace: ChoiceBuilder. It's the name at the top of my card.

Hugo: That's it, and it's the most common reason a provider can't locate somebody. ChoiceBuilder isn't a network — it's the programme your employer buys through. The network is the carrier.

Grace: So what do they search?

Hugo: VSP, using the subscriber ID rather than the ChoiceBuilder reference. Same number, different system.

Grace: Why does the card put ChoiceBuilder at the top?

Hugo: Because that's the programme. It's a fair criticism of the card and you're not the first to raise it.

Grace: Can you tell them?

Hugo: Better than that — I'm sending you a digital card now with the carrier name at the top and the subscriber ID under it. Show them that on your phone and it takes ten seconds.

Grace: And while I've got you — is my exam due?

Hugo: Last one was August. So yes, from August this year.

Grace: Perfect. Thank you.

James: Choice Administrators, James speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Caius: Caius Okonkwo, CON-162.

James: Thanks Caius.

Caius: We're nineteen people and six have signed up for the voluntary dental. Somebody told me we need a quarter of the workforce or we lose it. Is that right?

James: It isn't, and I'd rather take the worry away now. There's no percentage requirement on voluntary dental at all.

Caius: None?

James: None. Voluntary works on headcount. At nineteen eligible you need a minimum of ten eligible with five enrolled — or on Anthem, five eligible with two enrolled.

Caius: We've nineteen eligible and six enrolled.

James: Then you're clear on both counts, and you have been all along.

Caius: So where does the twenty-five percent come from?

James: Possibly somebody thinking of the employer-sponsored rule, which is seventy percent participation. Different arrangement, different test.

Caius: That's a relief. While I have you — the thirteen who didn't sign up. Do I need anything from them?

James: You do, and this is the important part of the call. Each of them has to complete the waiver section of the enrolment form, and you have to keep it.

Caius: They told me verbally.

James: That isn't enough, and the reason matters. Under the state code the employer has to obtain and retain a written waiver. If one of them later says they never declined and seeks cover, the employer can be liable for the healthcare costs they incur.

Caius: For a nineteen-person firm that could be serious.

James: Which is why I'd collect them this month rather than at renewal. Sending you the form now, with the participation rule alongside it so you've got both in writing.

Caius: Thank you. I came in worried about the wrong thing entirely.

Sarah: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Sarah speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Dmitri: Dmitri Jaramillo, CON-109.

Sarah: Thanks Dmitri.

Dmitri: We've a ninety-day wait and I want to drop it to thirty for engineers only. Anthony Salerno said that was fine, we just tell you.

Sarah: Two things wrong with that and I'm sorry to be the one saying it. The waiting period applies to all employees uniformly — there's no mechanism to run different periods for different roles.

Dmitri: At all?

Sarah: At all. It's one group-level election.

Dmitri: And the second thing?

Sarah: It can only be changed at renewal, within thirty days of your anniversary. Not mid-year, and not by telling us.

Dmitri: We've offered two engineers a thirty-day start.

Sarah: Then that's the problem to solve today rather than the rule. When's your anniversary?

Dmitri: First of December.

Sarah: So the change window opens in November. That doesn't help the two you've already offered.

Dmitri: What does?

Sarah: Honestly, nothing on the benefits side. There's no exception and I'm not going to invent one. What you can do is decide whether to make them whole another way — that's a payroll question, not mine.

Dmitri: I'd rather you'd said yes.

Sarah: So would I, but you'd have found out in September and it'd be worse. Two things I'm doing. I'm sending you the rule in writing so you can show it to whoever made the offer. And I'm recording that your broker advised something that isn't available — a waiting period told to a client as flexible when it's a fixed group election isn't a small thing.

Dmitri: Will anybody look at that?

Sarah: It goes to Broker Relations with your call attached, not into a note. I'll also flag your group for November so somebody prompts you when the window opens.

Rasmus: I want to change who my life insurance goes to. It's still my ex-wife.

Grace: I can get that moving. You don't need her agreement — a beneficiary designation is yours to change.

Rasmus: She doesn't have to sign?

Grace: No. That surprises people in both directions.

Rasmus: I want it to go to my son. He's eleven.

Grace: Then there's something you should know before you fill the form in, because it catches families at the worst moment. An insurer won't pay a benefit directly to a child. It goes to a court-appointed guardian, which takes time and costs money.

Rasmus: So what do people do?

Grace: Commonly they name a trust, or an adult they trust with the understanding it's for the child. That's a decision with legal consequences and I'm not the person to advise you which.

Rasmus: I hadn't thought about it at all.

Grace: Most people haven't. What I'd say is don't let that stop you filing the change. Leaving your ex-wife on the policy while you think about the structure is the worse of the two positions.

Rasmus: Can I change it again later?

Grace: As often as you like, at no cost.

Rasmus: Then send me the form.

Priya: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Priya speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Blythe: Blythe Fairweather, CB-7700096.

Priya: Thanks Blythe.

Blythe: I'm leaving at the end of the month. I've got three questions and I suspect they're all connected. What happens to my life insurance, can my wife keep her dental, and do I need to change who my life cover goes to before I go?

Priya: They are connected, and the order matters because one of them has a deadline that's much shorter than the others. Let me start there.

Blythe: The life one?

Priya: The life one. When your group cover ends you have thirty-one days to convert it to an individual policy, with no medical questions at all. Thirty-one days, and there's no extension.

Blythe: From my last day?

Priya: From the day cover ends, which isn't your last day — cover runs to the end of the month following. So end of next month, and your window closes thirty-one days after that.

Blythe: Nobody has mentioned this.

Priya: The notification duty sits with your employer, and it's the least well-handled part of the whole programme. I'm logging that the standard leaver pack covers dental continuation and says nothing about life.

Blythe: Second question — my wife's dental.

Priya: She's a dependent on your cover, so her dental ends when yours does. She'd have continuation rights, and that notice is also your employer's to send — within fourteen days, because you're over twenty employees.

Blythe: And she pays it herself.

Priya: She pays it, and she pays it to your employer, who pays us. That surprises people.

Blythe: Third — the beneficiary.

Priya: Change it now rather than later, and here's why. Once you convert, the individual policy is a new contract and you'd designate again. But if you don't convert, the group cover pays out on whoever is named at the point it ends — and if that's out of date, that's the version that stands.

Blythe: It's still my mother.

Priya: Then change it this week. I'm sending you the change form, the conversion request with your window date on it, and the continuation rules for your wife. Three documents, one email.

Blythe: What can't you do?

Priya: I can't make your employer send either notice, and I can't quote you the conversion premium — the carrier issues that to you directly. So chase your HR team, and don't wait for the letter.

Danielle: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Danielle speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Rafael: Rafael Sarkisian, CON-125.

Danielle: Thanks Rafael.

Rafael: We're adding life at renewal. I've eight people who've said they don't want it and I need to know how to handle the opt-outs.

Danielle: There aren't any, and that's going to be the difficult part of this call. Life on this programme is employer-sponsored only. One hundred percent employer-paid, one hundred percent participation. There's no employee election and nothing to opt out of.

Rafael: So they're in whether they like it or not.

Danielle: They're in. It costs them nothing, which usually settles it, but it isn't optional either way.

Rafael: Nobody framed it like that to me.

Danielle: There's a second part that catches groups out too. Every employee eligible for dental has to be enrolled in life, even the ones who waived dental.

Rafael: We've five who waived dental.

Danielle: Then those five need life enrolment forms as well, and they also don't have a choice.

Rafael: That's thirteen conversations I wasn't expecting.

Danielle: It is. I'd make it one conversation rather than thirteen — it's employer-paid cover they're being given, not something being taken.

Rafael: Can you tell me the benefit amount so I can put a number in front of them?

Danielle: That I can't, because it isn't set yet — the amount is your election at design stage and it goes through your broker or through sales. What I can tell you is that if you elect above the guaranteed issue amount, every eligible employee has to complete a statement of health, and take-up of the whole thing gets harder.

Rafael: So keep it at or under.

Danielle: For a first year that's what most groups do. I can't quote you the threshold — that's a carrier figure I'd need to confirm rather than guess at.

Rafael: Come back to me on it?

Danielle: I'll request it and email you either way. In the meantime the participation rules are going out today so you can brief people once, correctly.

Tarquin: Tarquin Marchetti, CON-176.

Carlos: Thanks Tarquin. Go ahead.

Tarquin: I'm looking at your portal right now and it says my new starter is active. The dentist rang and said your system shows her as not covered.

Carlos: Then one of those is wrong and I'd rather find out which than talk round it. Give me her name and I'll open the eligibility record rather than the portal view.

Tarquin: Same person, effective the first of this month.

Carlos: Right. The portal shows her active. Eligibility shows her pending. Those are two different systems and they disagree.

Tarquin: So which is true?

Carlos: Eligibility is what the carrier reads, so operationally the dentist is right and your screen is wrong. That's the honest answer and it's the worse of the two.

Tarquin: The portal is what I've been telling people to trust.

Carlos: I know. A portal that reports a status the carrier can't see is worse than a portal that reports nothing, because it makes you confident.

Tarquin: How does that even happen?

Carlos: The submission was accepted and the record hasn't propagated. I can see the date it landed; I can't see why it stalled.

Tarquin: So what happens to her?

Carlos: I'm escalating to eligibility today as a status mismatch, with both screens referenced, and asking them to force the record through rather than wait for the next run. Named owner, not a queue.

Tarquin: And her appointment?

Carlos: Tell her to keep the itemised receipt if she goes ahead. Once eligibility catches up the effective date is the first of the month, so the claim will pay retroactively.

Tarquin: I'd never have known to say that.

Carlos: And I'm logging the mismatch separately. If your portal and our eligibility system can disagree, you aren't the only employer this is happening to.

Michael: Thanks Liesel.

Liesel: I've used my annual maximum and I've still got two crowns to do. I assume I'm paying retail now.

Michael: You're paying, but not retail, and this is the most commonly missed thing on a dental plan.

Liesel: Go on.

Michael: Your maximum is exhausted, so the plan contributes nothing more this year. But your dentist has a contract with the carrier that says what they can charge you, and that contract doesn't switch off when the maximum does.

Liesel: So I keep the network price.

Michael: You keep the network price. Network dentists have agreed to charge somewhere between twenty-five and fifty percent below their usual rates, on every visit, not just the paid ones.

Liesel: On two crowns that's real money.

Michael: It's several hundred dollars, yes.

Liesel: Nobody's ever said that. The letter says maximum reached and stops.

Michael: It should say more and I'm logging that.

Liesel: Does it matter which dentist?

Michael: It matters a great deal now. Out of network you'd pay their full fee with no plan contribution and no contracted rate. In network you're getting the discount with no benefit left.

Liesel: Anything else I should be thinking about?

Michael: One thing I can't answer for you — whether to do one crown now and one in January when the maximum resets. That depends on clinical urgency, which is a question for the dentist, not me.

Liesel: Worth asking, though.

Michael: Very much so. That sequencing decision saves people more than anything I can do on the phone.

MEMBER · CB-7700007 | RESOLVED | score 78/100 | agent AGT-08|Nicole Trang

Nicole: Choice Administrators, Nicole speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Ingrid: Ingrid Zielinski, CB-7700007.

Nicole: Thanks Ingrid.

Ingrid: Odd question. My daughter needs glasses and she's fourteen. Is she on my plan?

Nicole: Let me check... yes, she's showing as a covered dependent, effective from March.

Ingrid: Good. Does she get her own allowance or do we share mine?

Nicole: Her own. Every covered person has their own exam, their own frame allowance and their own lens benefit. It isn't a family pot.

Ingrid: That's better than I assumed.

Nicole: It's assumed the other way round surprisingly often, and people delay taking a child in because they think it eats the adult's benefit.

Ingrid: Does she need to see the same optician as me?

Nicole: No. Any in-network provider, and she can go somewhere different from you.

Ingrid: And there's no referral or anything?

Nicole: Nothing. Book it.

Ingrid: Right, that was easier than I feared. Thank you.

EMPLOYER · CON-158 | RESOLVED | score 85/100 | agent AGT-05|Adaeze Nwosu

Adaeze: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Adaeze speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Leon: Leon Ueno, CON-158.

Adaeze: Thanks Leon.

Leon: We're making four people redundant next month. I want to be sure I give them the right paperwork.

Adaeze: Good call to make in advance rather than after. How many eligible employees do you have?

Leon: Thirty-five.

Adaeze: Then you're over twenty, so it's federal COBRA and the continuation notice is solely your responsibility, within fourteen days of their cover ending.

Leon: We've a template for that.

Adaeze: Then there's one more thing that almost certainly isn't in it, and it's the one people lose. You have life cover on this group, and a leaver has a right to convert that to an individual policy with no medical questions — but only within thirty-one days of the group cover ending.

Leon: Thirty-one days.

Adaeze: Thirty-one, and it's absolute. The notification responsibility for that sits with you as well.

Leon: That is not in our template.

Adaeze: It almost never is, and I'm logging that it isn't in the standard leaver pack either, which is ours to fix rather than yours.

Leon: Can you give me the wording?

Adaeze: I can give you the rule and the deadline in writing today. What I can't give you is the carrier's conversion quote — that's theirs and they'll only issue it to the individual. So the most useful thing you can do is give each of them the carrier's number and the date their window closes, on paper.

Leon: So they can't just hand it to me to sort out.

Adaeze: They can't, and I'd rather you knew that than promised something you can't deliver during a redundancy conversation.

Leon: That's fair. Send it through.

Linda: Choice Administrators, Linda speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Sunil: Sunil Quiroga, CB-7700161.

Linda: Thanks Sunil.

Sunil: I bought glasses from an optician who isn't on the list, because Sylvia Reinhardt told us at enrolment we could use anyone. I've submitted a claim and heard nothing in seven weeks.

Linda: Two separate things there. On the first — you can use anyone, that part is true. Out of network you're reimbursed against a schedule of allowances rather than at the in-network rate, and you file the claim yourself.

Sunil: She made it sound the same either way.

Linda: It isn't the same. It's usually a good deal less, and I'm recording that it was described as equivalent.

Sunil: And the seven weeks?

Linda: Let me look... claim received on the fourth of June, still pending. That's too long and I won't pretend otherwise.

Sunil: Can you push it?

Linda: I can raise a status enquiry, which puts a person on it rather than a queue. What I can't do is see why it stalled — the claim detail sits with the carrier, not with us.

Sunil: So you can't tell me what's wrong with it.

Linda: I can't. What I can do is tell you the most likely reason, which is worth checking before you wait another week. Was the receipt itemised, with the frame and the lenses priced separately?

Sunil: It was one total.

Linda: Then that's very probably it. A combined receipt is the commonest reason an out-of-network vision claim sits. Ask the optician to reprint it itemised.

Sunil: And resubmit?

Linda: Send it in alongside the enquiry I'm raising. I'd also ring the carrier directly — they can see the claim and I can't, so they'll be faster than me relaying.

Sunil: That's more use than I've had in seven weeks. Thank you.

James: Choice Administrators, James speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Denise: Denise Valdez, CON-160.

James: Thanks Denise.

Denise: Our accountant has asked whether our dental premiums can come out pre-tax. Is that something you do?

James: It is — it's a Section 125 Premium Only Plan, and you can add it at any time. It doesn't have to wait for renewal.

Denise: Any time?

James: Any time. It's one of the very few things on this programme that isn't tied to your anniversary.

Denise: What does it cost?

James: A one-off hundred dollars, which appears on your next invoice.

Denise: And the benefit?

James: Employee contributions come out before tax, so their take-home improves and your payroll taxes reduce. On twenty-four employees that usually pays for itself in the first month.

Denise: Why has nobody mentioned it in three years?

James: It isn't offered proactively, which is a fair criticism and I'm noting it.

Denise: Is there anything I need to do beyond asking?

James: There's a plan document your accountant will want to see and payroll has to be set up to deduct pre-tax. That's their side rather than ours, but it's straightforward.

Denise: Set it up. And send me whatever the accountant needs.

James: Requesting it now, document going out today.

Halina: Halina Dragomir, CB-7700008.

Elena: Go ahead.

Halina: My chiropractor took x-rays and charged me eighty dollars. I thought the visit copay covered everything.

Elena: The copay covers the visit.

Halina: And not the x-ray?

Elena: X-rays sit separately.

Halina: Separately how? Not covered, or covered up to something?

Elena: There's usually an annual amount.

Halina: How much is mine?

Elena: Let me check. Bear with me.

[waits]

[hold 2m 30s] Thanks for holding. I'm seeing an x-ray maximum on the plan.

Halina: What is it?

Elena: It's an annual figure.

Halina: Yes. What figure?

Elena: I can see there's one set. I don't want to quote you the wrong number.

Halina: So you can see there's a limit but not what it is.

Elena: Not on this screen, no.

Halina: Is there the same thing on equipment? He mentioned a support.

Elena: There's usually a separate one for equipment as well.

Halina: So there are two limits I don't know the size of, and I find out by being billed.

Elena: They're on the benefit summary.

Halina: Which I don't have.

Elena: I can request a copy for you.

Halina: Do that. And can somebody tell me what I've used so far?

Elena: That'd be the carrier.

Halina: Then send me their number too.

Hugo: Choice Administrators, Hugo speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Aurelio: Aurelio Steinberg, CB-7700009.

Hugo: Thanks Aurelio.

Aurelio: My dentist has quoted three thousand two hundred for a bridge and some other work. Can you tell me what I'd pay?

Hugo: Not accurately, and I'd rather say that than give you a number you plan around and then find wrong.

Aurelio: Why not? You know my plan.

Hugo: I know your coinsurance levels and your maximum. What I don't know is how each procedure will be coded, whether any of it falls outside the plan, and whether the waiting period on major services applies to you.

Aurelio: So the number could move a lot.

Hugo: It could move by more than a thousand dollars on work that size.

Aurelio: Then what do I do?

Hugo: Ask the practice for a pretreatment estimate. They submit the proposed treatment to the carrier before doing it, and the carrier comes back in writing with what the plan will pay and what you'll owe, procedure by procedure.

Aurelio: Do they have to do it?

Hugo: It isn't required, which is why many skip it. Any of them can, and on three thousand two hundred dollars I'd insist.

Aurelio: How long?

Hugo: Two to three weeks.

Aurelio: That's a wait.

Hugo: It is. It's also the difference between a decision and a hope. And if some of it isn't covered you can sequence the work across two plan years, which sometimes changes the total substantially.

Aurelio: Ask for it by name?

Hugo: Pretreatment estimate. They'll know exactly what you mean.

Nikhil: Stephen Vaught told our lot at enrolment that we get glasses and contacts every year. The optician says I can only have one.

Deon: It's one hardware benefit.

Nikhil: Meaning one of the two?

Deon: Meaning the benefit covers hardware.

Nikhil: That isn't an answer to what I asked.

Deon: Let me check the design. Bear with me.

[hold 2m 45s] Thanks for holding. The plan lists a frame allowance and a contact lens allowance.

Nikhil: So both are on it.

Deon: Both are listed.

Nikhil: Can I use both in a year?

Deon: They're alternatives.

Nikhil: So no.

Deon: On most designs it's one or the other.

Nikhil: Is it on mine?

Deon: I'd read it as one or the other.

Nikhil: You'd read it as. I've been told something different by the person who sold it to us.

Deon: I can only go on what's on the plan.

Nikhil: Then can you send me what's on the plan, in writing, so I can take it back to him?

Deon: I can request the benefit summary.

Nikhil: Please. And is it worth me saying anything about what we were told?

Deon: I can note it.

Sarah: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Sarah speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Quentin: Quentin Winters, CB-7700143.

Sarah: Thanks Quentin. Go ahead.

Quentin: The optometrist found something at my exam on Monday and referred me urgently to an ophthalmologist. I'm booked for Thursday and now I'm being told it isn't covered.

Sarah: Let me be clear about one thing straight away, because it matters more than the cover question. If a clinician has said urgent, go on Thursday. Don't move it while we work out who pays.

Quentin: It's four hundred dollars.

Sarah: I understand, and I'm not dismissing that. But a suspected retinal problem doesn't wait for a billing conversation, and I'd rather say that plainly.

Quentin: So is it covered or not?

Sarah: Not by your vision plan, and that's not a refusal, it's the wrong plan. A medical eye condition belongs to your medical cover. Vision covers the routine exam and the glasses.

Quentin: I don't have medical through you.

Sarah: No, and that's the gap. Whoever holds your medical is the route, and the referral your optometrist wrote is the document that gets it covered there.

Quentin: Our broker Lucia Moreno told us the vision plan covered eye health.

Sarah: It covers the exam that detects it. It doesn't cover the treatment, and those get described as the same thing far too often. I'm recording that.

Quentin: So what are you actually doing for me?

Sarah: Three things. I'm escalating this as a clinical risk, which means it goes to review today rather than sitting — a member with an urgent referral and a cover dispute is not a routine query. I'm sending you the exam claim and the referral coding, which is what your medical carrier will ask for. And I'm flagging that a broker described the line as covering eye health.

Quentin: And if my medical says no as well?

Sarah: Then ring me back and we'll look at what else exists. But go on Thursday first.

Quentin: Thank you. That's the first person who's led with the appointment.

Sandra: Sandra Nasser, CON-104.

Grace: Thanks Sandra.

Sandra: Somebody's leaving and I've no idea what I'm meant to do about continuation. I've read two things online that contradict each other.

Grace: They probably both apply to somebody, just not to you. How many eligible employees have you got?

Sandra: Sixteen.

Grace: Then you're under Cal-COBRA, not federal COBRA, and that changes who does what.

Sandra: Which is the one where I send the letter?

Grace: Neither, as it happens. Under Cal-COBRA the notification duty sits with the health plans, and they've contracted us to do it. So we send the election notice.

Sandra: So I do nothing?

Grace: You do one thing and it's the one that matters. Tell us about the termination within thirty days of their last day. We can't send a notice for a leaver we don't know about.

Sandra: And the address?

Grace: Same thirty days if it changes. We send to the last address we hold and we're not responsible for a misdirected notice.

Sandra: How long does their cover run?

Grace: Up to thirty-six months under Cal-COBRA for a qualifying event.

Sandra: Three years. That's longer than I thought.

Grace: It is, and it's worth knowing because they'll be on your invoice in a separate section the whole time, and you collect from them.

Sandra: I collect from an ex-employee for three years?

Grace: If they elect and keep electing. Which is why having a process rather than a memory matters.

Sandra: One more — if we grow past twenty?

Grace: Then it flips entirely and the duty becomes solely yours, within fourteen days. Worth knowing before it happens.

Sandra: Send me both. Thank you.

Carlos: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Carlos speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Oscar: Oscar Foster, CB-7700022.

Carlos: Thanks Oscar.

Oscar: My son's been taken off my vision cover and he's twenty-four. The optician turned him away.

Carlos: That shouldn't happen at twenty-four. Let me look... he's showing as terminated at the end of June.

Oscar: On what basis?

Carlos: The record has his date of birth as 2000, which would make him twenty-six in June and end cover at the end of July.

Oscar: He was born in 2002.

Carlos: Then the record is wrong and this is our error compounding an employer data error — neither of which is your problem to solve on a phone call.

Oscar: Can you fix it?

Carlos: Not directly, and here's the honest version. Dates of birth come through your employer's file, so the correction has to originate there. What I'm not going to do is send you off to chase your own HR team for something that has already cost your son an appointment.

Oscar: So what happens?

Carlos: I'm escalating this to eligibility as a data correction with a named owner today, and they will go to your employer for the confirmation rather than you. I'm also flagging the terminated line so it isn't processed further while it's contested.

Oscar: And the appointment he was turned away from?

Carlos: Once the date is corrected the eligibility restores retroactively, so if he pays and keeps an itemised receipt the claim can be submitted. Tell him to keep the paperwork.

Oscar: How long?

Carlos: Days rather than weeks with it escalated, but it depends on how fast your employer confirms. You'll have the reference in an email within the hour — reply to it and it comes back to me rather than into a queue.

Oscar: Thank you. I expected to be told to ring HR.

Dwayne: Dwayne Hollis, CB-7700023.

Priya: Thanks Dwayne.

Dwayne: I need a crown and I'm told there's a twelve-month wait. I had dental with my last employer right up to the day I started here.

Priya: Then don't accept that as final, because there's a credit that exists precisely for your situation and it is almost never mentioned to members.

Dwayne: Go on.

Priya: The twelve-month wait on major services applies to people without comparable prior coverage. With twelve consecutive months of prior dental, it's waived.

Dwayne: I had four years.

Priya: Then you qualify, and there's no partial credit to worry about — eleven months would get nothing, four years is fine.

Dwayne: So why is it showing?

Priya: Because nothing on file proves it. The credit is applied from a document, not from an assumption.

Dwayne: What document?

Priya: A certificate of coverage from your previous carrier showing twelve consecutive months. It's a standard document and they're obliged to provide it.

Dwayne: Marcus Trent handled our enrolment and never said a word about this.

Priya: No, and he should have. I'm recording it — takeover credit is exactly the kind of thing that should be raised at enrolment and it's treated as a group underwriting matter that members never hear about.

Dwayne: And once I have the certificate?

Priya: Send it to me and I'll submit it. If it holds up the waiting period comes off and the crown is a different conversation entirely.

Dwayne: That's a thousand dollars you've just saved me.

Priya: Get the certificate first — but yes, probably.

Danielle: Thanks Lorna.

Lorna: One of my employees has an explanation of benefits saying she owes seventy-five dollars and a bill from the dentist for a hundred and sixty. She's asked me which one to pay.

Danielle: Then let's establish which document governs, because they're not equally authoritative. The explanation of benefits is the carrier's determination of what she owes under the plan. The practice's bill is what they've decided to charge.

Lorna: So the seventy-five is the real number.

Danielle: If the practice is in network, yes. An in-network dentist has agreed to accept the carrier's determination, so charging above it is a contract issue between them and the carrier, not between them and her.

Lorna: And if they're out of network?

Danielle: Then the gap is legitimate and she owes it. Let me check... the claim processed at in-network rates, so they are contracted.

Lorna: Then they're overcharging her.

Danielle: That's the likely reading, and I want to be careful with the word. It could equally be a billing office that hasn't posted the carrier's payment yet, which is common and innocent.

Lorna: How does she tell the difference?

Danielle: She rings the practice with the explanation of benefits in front of her and asks them to confirm they've received the carrier payment and to rebill at the determined patient share. Nine times in ten that ends it.

Lorna: And the tenth?

Danielle: Then it's a balance-billing complaint and it goes to the carrier, not to us — they hold the provider contract. I'll send her the wording for both and a copy of the determination.

Lorna: She'll want to know whether to pay in the meantime.

Danielle: That's her decision and I won't make it for her. What I'd say is she shouldn't pay a hundred and sixty on the strength of a bill that contradicts a determination she's holding.

Linda: Choice Administrators, Linda speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Carmen: Carmen Lindqvist, CB-7700024.

Linda: Thanks Carmen.

Carmen: I'm seeing a chiropractor twice a week and it isn't helping. Someone's suggested acupuncture instead. Do I have to finish one before I start the other?

Linda: No. You can switch whenever you like, you don't need permission, and you don't need to tell us. Both sit on the same line.

Carmen: So I could do both in the same week.

Linda: You could. The constraint isn't which practitioner, it's the number of visits — they share one annual maximum between them.

Carmen: How many have I used?

Linda: That's the bit I can't see. Visit counts are held by the carrier and update as claims come in, so anything I told you would be out of date.

Carmen: Twice a week since March is a lot.

Linda: It is, and if you're close to the maximum then starting a course of acupuncture now would run out partway through, which is the worst outcome.

Carmen: So I should find out first.

Linda: Ring the carrier and ask for your used and remaining count on the combined benefit. Ask for combined, specifically — if you ask about chiropractic they may only quote that.

Carmen: And if I've nearly used it?

Linda: Then it's a conversation about spacing treatment across the plan year, and that's clinical rather than mine to steer.

Carmen: Fair. Can you send me the maximum at least?

Linda: Your design's combined maximum, going out today. The used count has to come from them.

Deon: Go ahead.

Ewan: I've been quoted three hundred and ten for lenses and I want to know what the plan pays before I agree.

Deon: There's a lens benefit on the plan.

Ewan: How much is it?

Deon: It depends on the lens type.

Ewan: Single vision, but with the thin ones and the anti-glare.

Deon: Those are enhancements.

Ewan: Are they covered?

Deon: They carry their own copays.

Ewan: How much are the copays?

Deon: Let me check the schedule. Bear with me.

[waits]

[hold 2m 35s] Thanks for holding. I can see enhancement copays listed.

Ewan: And the amounts?

Deon: They vary by enhancement.

Ewan: Yes. That's why I told you which two I'm having.

Deon: Anti-reflective has a copay and high-index has a copay.

Ewan: How much, in dollars, each?

Deon: I'd rather not quote the wrong figure.

Ewan: Then find the right one. I'm being asked to sign for three hundred and ten dollars.

Deon: The practice can run a breakdown before they order.

Ewan: They said to check with you.

Deon: They'd have the design in front of them.

Ewan: So would you, presumably.

Deon: I can see the design. The enhancement detail isn't broken out the way you'd want.

Ewan: Then I'll go back to them and say you couldn't tell me either.

EMPLOYER · CON-130 | RESOLVED | score 87/100 | agent AGT-05|Adaeze Nwosu

Adaeze: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Adaeze speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Omar: Omar Liu, CON-130.

Adaeze: Thanks Omar.

Omar: We've got dental and I want to add vision. Patricia Nunez sent me a summary of what we hold so I know where we stand, but she's on leave and my staff are asking now.

Adaeze: Then let me give you something you can act on today. Employer-sponsored vision is one of the very few things you can add at any time — it isn't tied to your anniversary.

Omar: Any time?

Adaeze: Any time. Adding chiro or life would be once a year and at renewal. Vision isn't.

Omar: What's the participation requirement?

Adaeze: That depends which way you buy it. Employer-sponsored needs seventy percent and a minimum of two enrolled. Voluntary has no minimum participation requirement at all.

Omar: None at all on voluntary?

Adaeze: None. Vision is the one line where that's true, and it's the thing people most often get wrong because dental behaves completely differently.

Omar: We're two hundred and five employees. Seventy percent is a lot to guarantee.

Adaeze: It is, and if you're not confident, voluntary removes the risk entirely. The trade is that you'd contribute nothing and take-up would be lower.

Omar: Which would you do?

Adaeze: That's a decision for you and your broker rather than me — I don't hold your budget. What I'd say is voluntary is the safer first year, and you can move to employer-sponsored at renewal once you know the take-up.

Omar: That's sensible. Who do I actually go to?

Adaeze: Rating and design go through your broker or through sales. I'm flagging the interest on the account today so it doesn't wait for Patricia to come back, and I'll email you both participation rules in writing so the conversation starts from the right place.

Omar: Appreciated.

Danielle: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Danielle speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Derek: Derek Castellanos, CON-174.

Danielle: Thanks Derek.

Derek: Two people asked to come off the dental in June. I submitted it last week. They want June and July back.

Danielle: They won't get it, and I'd rather tell you now than let you promise it. A voluntary withdrawal takes effect the last day of the month following receipt — not the month they asked you.

Derek: So it's my fault for sitting on it.

Danielle: The delay is the delay. But the rule would be identical if they'd rung us themselves in June, because withdrawals aren't processed retroactively at all. Not backdated, ever.

Derek: So when do they come off?

Danielle: Received last week, so end of September.

Derek: They'll be furious.

Danielle: There's one more thing they should hear at the same time, because it causes the second call. Once they're out, they can't come back in until renewal. Not on a qualifying event, not if they change their mind.

Derek: They definitely don't know that.

Danielle: Almost nobody does.

Derek: Can I at least short-pay the invoice for those two?

Danielle: That's the one thing I'd ask you not to do. Pay as billed. Any credit appears on the statement after the termination processes. If you short-pay we end up chasing a balance and a correction at the same time, and it takes longer.

Derek: And if the credit doesn't appear?

Danielle: Then ring me. I can't promise you a date for it because the reconciliation sits with billing rather than with me, and I won't invent one.

Derek: Fair. Send me the rule so I'm not the one inventing it either.

Danielle: Effective date and the re-entry rule, one page, going out today.

Linda: Choice Administrators, Linda speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Nina: Nina Bonaventura, CON-150.

Linda: Thanks Nina.

Nina: We've life cover and I want to drop it. Costs are up and it's the one nobody uses.

Linda: You can terminate a line at any time — thirty days' notice, in writing on your letterhead, effective no earlier than the first of the following month.

Nina: That's easier than I expected.

Linda: It is. Can I ask one thing before you do it?

Nina: Go on.

Linda: Life is the line nobody uses until somebody does, and when they do it's the only one that matters. You've twelve employees. The premium on a group that size is usually the smallest thing on your invoice.

Nina: It's about four percent of the total.

Linda: Then I'd look at what the four percent buys before I removed it. That's not me selling you anything — I've nothing to gain and I'm not on commission.

Nina: Can you tell me what it'd save exactly?

Linda: I can't, and that's the constraint. Rating sits with your broker, not with me. I can see what you're billed in total but not the line-by-line split on this screen.

Nina: Can you get it?

Linda: Your broker can, same day. I'd ask them before you write the termination letter.

Nina: And if I still want to drop it?

Linda: Then it's thirty days and it's done. One thing to know — anyone who's currently covered has a conversion right when the cover ends, thirty-one days, no medical questions. You'd need to tell them, and that responsibility sits with you.

Nina: Nobody would have told me that.

Linda: No. I'll send it in writing alongside the termination requirements so you've got both.

Michael: Thanks Anouk.

Anouk: My last two acupuncture sessions have been refused and I don't understand why. The first six were fine.

Michael: Let me look... you've had twelve visits this plan year across both practitioners.

Anouk: Both? I've only seen the acupuncturist.

Michael: You had four chiropractic sessions in February. They count against the same maximum.

Anouk: Nobody told me they were the same pot.

Michael: That's the whole problem with the line being called chiropractic on most of the paperwork when it's chiropractic and acupuncture. It's one benefit and one count.

Anouk: So I've used it.

Michael: You've used it. The refusals are correct, which I know isn't what you want to hear.

Anouk: And nobody warns you as you get close?

Michael: No, and that's a fair criticism. I'm logging it — a member approaching a combined maximum should hear it from us at visit nine, not discover it at visit thirteen.

Anouk: What happens now?

Michael: Anything further this plan year is self-pay. It resets on your anniversary, and I'll send you that date so you can plan around it rather than guess.

Anouk: Can I at least get the network price?

Michael: Ask the practitioner. Many hold their contracted rate for self-pay patients, and it's worth asking rather than assuming full price.

Duncan: I broke my glasses six weeks after getting them. Is there anything?

Nicole: Not through the plan — the benefit is once per period and it's been used. But don't pay full price before you've asked two questions.

Duncan: Go on.

Nicole: Most frames carry a manufacturer's warranty of a year against defects, and a lot of opticians include a one-off breakage replacement in what you already paid. Ask them both, explicitly.

Duncan: I sat on them. That's not a defect.

Nicole: No, but the breakage cover usually doesn't care how. It's worth the phone call before you assume.

Duncan: And if neither applies?

Nicole: Then ask about the twenty percent discount on additional glasses. It runs for twelve months from your last exam and applies to a second pair from any VSP doctor.

Duncan: Nobody mentioned any of that when I bought them.

Nicole: It's the least advertised part of a vision plan. Ask for it by name.

Duncan: That's three things I didn't know. Thank you.

Terrence: And against?

Hugo: There's an annual visit maximum, and once it's used you pay full cost for the rest of the plan year. Nobody warns you as you approach it.

Terrence: How many do I get?

Hugo: That's the part I can't answer precisely, and I'd rather say so. It varies by design and it's on your benefit summary. Commonly twenty or thirty, but I'm not going to have you plan a course of treatment around a typical figure.

Terrence: Twenty sessions could be the whole year's worth.

Hugo: It could be exactly the whole year's worth, which is why this matters before you start rather than at session eighteen.

Terrence: So what do I do?

Hugo: Two things. I'm requesting your benefit summary today so you have the actual number. And I'd ring the carrier and ask how many you've used this year, because that's live and I can't see it.

Terrence: And if twenty doesn't fit?

Hugo: Then it's a conversation with your doctor about spacing it across two plan years, which is a clinical decision and not one I should be steering.

Terrence: That's a sensible way to put it. Thank you.

Grace: Choice Administrators, Grace speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Marcus: Marcus Pennington, CB-7700145.

Grace: Thanks Marcus.

Marcus: This is a hard call. I've been given about eight months. Lucia Moreno told me there might be something I can access early and to ring you.

Grace: I'm very sorry. She's right, and I'll take it slowly. It's called an accelerated death benefit — it lets part of the life benefit be paid during life where there's a terminal prognosis.

Marcus: How much of it?

Grace: Up to a cap, and the policy keeps a minimum face amount behind so there's still a benefit at the end. What's paid early reduces what's paid later — it isn't extra money, it's the same money sooner.

Marcus: We understood that.

Grace: The prognosis usually has to be certified by a physician, typically twelve months or less. That comes from your doctor rather than from you.

Marcus: Eight months, so that's fine.

Grace: Then you qualify on that test.

Marcus: What do I need to do?

Grace: I'm sending you the claim form and the carrier's direct number today. And I'd suggest speaking to them rather than working through me — they handle these constantly and they'll be quicker and, frankly, kinder than a relay through a third party.

Marcus: Can my wife do it if I'm not up to it?

Grace: It's your benefit and your election, so normally you or someone with authority to act for you. If that becomes difficult, tell me and I'll find out exactly what the carrier accepts rather than guess.

Marcus: I'm alright at the moment.

Grace: Then I'd start while that's true. Everything going out today, and if anything is unclear when it arrives, ring back and ask for me by name.

C-0147 — Broker Conduct

Wed 12 Aug 2026 14:50 · AHT 7m 40s · Competent and resolved · rules P-23

EMPLOYER · CON-114 | RESOLVED | score 86/100 | agent AGT-09|James Okonjo

James: Choice Administrators, James speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Rasmus: Rasmus Nkemdi, CON-114.

James: Thanks Rasmus.

Rasmus: Denise Whitfield told me we need twenty-five percent on the voluntary dental or we lose it. We're at nineteen percent and I've been losing sleep.

James: Then I can take that away, because the figure isn't right. There's no percentage requirement on voluntary dental at all.

Rasmus: None?

James: None. Voluntary works on headcount. For a group your size it's a minimum of ten eligible with at least five enrolled.

Rasmus: We've a hundred and twenty eligible and twenty-three enrolled.

James: Then you're comfortably clear and you have been throughout.

Rasmus: Six weeks of worrying about a rule that doesn't exist.

James: The seventy percent figure she may have been thinking of applies to employer-sponsored dental, which is what you moved away from. Different arrangement, different test.

Rasmus: So she mixed them up.

James: I'm not going to characterise why. What I will do is record it, because a broker giving a client a participation rule that doesn't apply to the arrangement they've just placed is worth Broker Relations seeing.

Rasmus: Should I raise it with her?

James: That's yours to judge. What I'd suggest is asking for product rules in writing from now on — from her, from sales, and from me. I'm sending you the actual requirement today with the reference on it.

Rasmus: I'll do that. Thank you — genuinely, that's a weight off.

C-0148 — Coverage & Benefits

Thu 13 Aug 2026 09:28 · AHT 7m 40s · Competent and resolved · rules C-12, P-29

EMPLOYER · CON-168 | RESOLVED | score 88/100 | agent AGT-01|Sarah Whitlock

Sarah: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Sarah speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Sable: Sable Cruz, CON-168.

Sarah: Thanks Sable.

Sable: I rang on Tuesday about an employee's waiting period on a crown and was told prior coverage counts for nothing. I rang back Thursday and a different person said it could be waived. I've now told the employee two different things.

Sarah: Then let me settle it, and I'll tell you which of the two was right rather than splitting the difference.

Sable: Please.

Sarah: Thursday was right. The twelve-month wait on major services applies to groups without comparable prior coverage. With twelve consecutive months of prior dental, it's waived — that's the takeover credit.

Sable: So Tuesday was simply wrong.

Sarah: Tuesday was incomplete rather than invented. The credit is applied at group enrolment, from a document, so if nothing is on file the screen shows the waiting period and an agent reading only the screen would say what Tuesday said.

Sable: That's a distinction my employee won't care about.

Sarah: No, and nor should she. Two answers in three days is our failure, not a nuance.

Sable: So what do I tell her?

Sarah: Get a certificate of coverage from her previous carrier showing twelve consecutive months. Send it to me and I'll submit it. If it holds, the waiting period comes off and the crown is covered.

Sable: And if she was only there eleven months?

Sarah: Then nothing — there's no partial credit, and I'd rather she knew that before she pays for the certificate.

Sable: Can you put all of that in writing?

Sarah: Going out today. And I'm logging the contradiction. If two agents give opposite answers on the same rule in the same week, the rule isn't clear enough in the knowledge base, which is fixable.

MEMBER · CB-7700038 | RESOLVED | score 82/100 | agent AGT-06|Michael Osei

Michael: Choice Administrators, Michael speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and member ID?

Emeka: Emeka Nakamura, CB-7700038.

Michael: Thanks Emeka.

Emeka: My annual maximum has gone up and I want to make sure it isn't a mistake before I book work on the strength of it.

Michael: Sensible way round. It'll be a rewards carryover, and it's a good surprise for once.

Emeka: Explain that?

Michael: On your carrier, if you use less than a threshold amount in a year, some benefit carries forward into the next. Usually a couple of hundred, plus a bit more again if you stayed in network.

Emeka: So because I barely went last year.

Michael: Because you barely went and you stayed in network. Both conditions.

Emeka: Does it keep building?

Michael: Up to a ceiling. It stops if you have a heavy year, and — this is the part worth knowing — it resets if you have a break in coverage.

Emeka: I was thinking of dropping the plan for a year.

Michael: Then that's worth factoring in. You'd lose the accumulation, not just pause it.

Emeka: How much have I got?

Michael: I'll send you your current accumulated figure so it's a number rather than an idea. It's usually more than people expect and it changes the maths on dropping.

Emeka: Please do. And it's definitely not an error?

Michael: It's a deliberate plan feature. Book on the strength of it.

C-0150 — Enrollment & ID Cards

EMPLOYER · CON-165 | RESOLVED | score 84/100 | agent AGT-05|Adaeze Nwosu

Adaeze: Thank you for calling Choice Administrators, Adaeze speaking. This call may be recorded for quality and training. Name and group number?

Lena: Lena Boyd, CON-165.

Adaeze: Thanks Lena.

Lena: We're taking back two carers who left in March. Do they wait ninety days again?

Adaeze: Possibly not, but there are four conditions and all four have to hold.

Lena: Go on.

Adaeze: They previously completed your waiting period. They were previously enrolled. They're rehired within six months of losing the cover. And they re-enrol in the same benefits as before.

Lena: They finished at the end of March.

Adaeze: Then their cover would have ended end of April, and six months from there is end of October. So you're inside it — but note the clock runs from when cover ended, not from their last day. Those differ by up to a month and it catches people.

Lena: Both were on dental only.

Adaeze: And are they coming back on dental only?

Lena: One wants to add vision this time.

Adaeze: Then the rule doesn't apply to her. Adding a line means it isn't the same benefits, so she'd serve the waiting period as a new enrolment.

Lena: That's a trap.

Adaeze: It is, and it's worth her knowing before she chooses, because she may prefer dental only now and vision at renewal.

Lena: I'd never have thought to tell her that.

Adaeze: Most employers wouldn't. Their cover starts the first of the month following the rehire either way.

Lena: Send me the four conditions?

Adaeze: Going out today, with the vision point flagged so she can decide with it in front of her.
